HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

None of us knows what is ahead. The important thing is to use today wisely and well, and face tomorrow eagerly and cheerfully and with the certainty that we shall be equal to what it brings.

During the past four or six years you have used your "today" wisely and well. You had the good sense to enroll in a school that was and is famed for its rugged course of study and for its insistence upon hard work and successful accomplishment. You did not choose the easier way; you deliberately registered in a school that tried and tested you as you will never be tried and tested again.

To face "tomorrow" eagerly and cheerfully is not going to be easy. There are those who say we live in an Age of Fear; and that the future is filled with peril to our Country and to us as individuals. On the international horizon is the scourge of Communism; on the national level is the fear of a coming business recession or something worse.

Yet, it must always be remembered that every age has had its prophets of doom. In every era men have warned of disasters to come; but the stout-hearted always faced the "tomorrow" eagerly and cheerfully and with the certainty that they would be equal to what it brought.

You, too, will be equal to whatever the future has in store for you and for your country. I need not remind you that all the boys who entered this school with you are not graduating when you graduate. Some dropped out because of poor health; others because they did not have the will to study; and some because they did not have the intellect required to do our work. They were tried and found wanting. You have been tried and found worthy. Never forget that fact. In the days ahead you will encounter periods of discouragement and frustration. There will be times when you will be tempted to settle for something less than the ultimate success for which you had planned. On such occasions, recall your days at the Latin School. If you could persevere and succeed here, there is no problem too difficult to be attacked and solved in the years to come. I cannot emphasize this point too strongly. Never again, in your whole life, will you be tested as you have been tested here.

Occasionally, boys or their parents ask me for the secret of success. Would that I knew the infallible answer to the question! When pressed for a reply, I state that the secret of success is to be ready for opportunity when it comes. Need I elaborate on how one is to be "ready" for opportunity? We anticipate that all you boys will enter college next fall, and that after college you will plan to enter one of the professional schools. Your opportunities will be many, but do not neglect to prepare yourselves to meet them on the most favorable terms.

As you and I are about to leave the Latin School and to enter upon new careers, may I urge you always to make God a part of your lives and your careers. Constantly keep in mind the Biblical quotation: —

"Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it."

FOREWORD

From its colonial beginning as a few small settlements on the cold, Indian-infested shore of the Atlantic, the United States has been guided along the road of might and prosperity by men whose courageous and unselfish thoughts and actions have kept back the destructive forces that have beset her. No small contributor to the ranks of these men has been our Alma Mater; for, since her founding in 1635, as the nation's first public school, Boston Latin School has given to the country scores of leaders who have served on the battlefields, in the legislatures, in the halls of justice, and in the schools and hospitals. As history has emerged from one period into the next, our alumni have ever displayed the noble qualities which are even now, three hundred years later, associated with the graduates of Latin School.

As we record the history of the Class of 1954 in the Liber Actorum, we shall show how, in each period of the history of our country, the men of B.L.S. have met and faced the national crises. We shall illustrate the unselfish devotion of these men to their country, their world, and their God.

We of the graduating class express the hope and the prayer that in some future time the deeds performed by the men of our ranks may be looked upon with the same pride with which we regard the accomplishments of the graduates whose names adorn these pages.

COLONIAL PERIOD

From the first permanent colonization of North America in the sixteenth century until the eve of the Revolution, the valiant settlers had to contend with harsh elements of nature and the treachery of natives. Because of their determination, they were able to establish infant businesses and the beginnings of a profitable trade. In these difficult times, the Colonists turned for advice, comfort, and leadership to the prominent men of the settlements, under whose guidance the fortunes of the Colonies turned from bleak prospects of starvation to the rosy future of a self-supporting nation.

FACULTY

JOHN HULL, Class of 1635

Born in Boston in 1624, John Hull attended the first session of Boston Latin School, which Schoolmaster Philemon Parmont had undertaken to conduct in his own home. John Hull was the first mint-master of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and the wealth he accumulated enabled him to become the business leader of the settlement and a great patron of trade.

COTTON MATHER, Class of 1669

A freshman at Harvard College at the age of 12 in 1674, Cotton Mather prepared to follow the path his father had taken in the ministry. Fully aware of the danger of letting the Royal Government assume unreasonable powers, Mather was a leader of the revolt against cruel Governor Andros. He was also one of the few calm, compassionate persons who tried to prevent the burning of witches in Salem.

JOHN LEVERETT, Class of 1669

After completing his education, John Leverett entered the field of politics. His rapid rise to the position of Speaker of the House in the Massachusetts legislature raised him high in the public esteem. In 1707, he was elected President of Harvard College, where he instituted needed reforms.

CURRICULUM

THE ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

The English Department has two related functions in the training of students. The efficient use of the language for the communication of information and ideas is essential for success in any desired profession in later life. In the courses in English, therefore, the staff assists all students to develop skill in written and oral expression. In writing or speaking, individual assistance is available to those who are especially interested. After a few years, most students can notice the improvement in their speed and efficiency in other subjects, owing to the excellent background which English masters have given them.

The second function of English teaching at the Latin School is to contribute to the liberal education of all students through required courses in literature. The purpose of the courses is to teach students how to read for the values which great writers have, in works of lasting worth, contributed to our way of life.

THE LATIN AND GREEK DEPARTMENT

Under the able direction of Mr. Hopkinson, the Latin and Greek Department enjoyed another successful year in carrying on the teaching of the classics.

In 1635, when Boston Latin School was founded, the study of Latin and Greek was essential. Then, as now, the knowledge of the humanities was realized as essential to a well-bred man. The past year has proved to be no exception.

From Ritchie's First Steps to Virgil, and from White's Greek Grammar to Homer, all of the boys at B.L.S. have given their close attention to the language of ancient Rome and Greece. Everybody at the school hopes that the classical language department will reign for many more years as successfully as it has during 1953-54.

THE FRENCH DEPARTMENT

With vivacious Mr. Levine at the helm, another year passed, with the French Department carrying on its wonderful work. From the works of DeMaupassant down to the pronunciation of le crayon, the able group of masters have turned out another group of potential ambassadors and interpreters.

The brilliant French Department has done an amazing job in training the boys of B.L.S. in a language which is still spoken. Although some may never study the language after secondary school, the romantic French will never be forgotten. Good luck to Mr. Levine and his able corps.

THE GERMAN DEPARTMENT

Any boy willing to put a little faithful study here into the German language will be rewarded not only by an exceptionally high mark in the College Board Exam, but also by a thorough background of German, which will prove useful in the years to come. Starting with the famous "Elementary 400", a boy will work his way through an ever-increasing deluge of word and verb "sheets" until, in his senior year, he is given the opportunity to hear, via the medium of Mr. Van Steenberg's phonograph, German spoken by a real, true-to-life "Deutscher." Meanwhile, of course, he is acquiring a minute knowledge of German grammar and construction. For a final word, one has merely to use this oft-repeated phrase of the head of the department: "Die Cherman period zhould pe doupeld."

THE HISTORY DEPARTMENT

Thought by many boys the most interesting of all subjects, history has been well-treated in the past year. From the Paleolithic Age to Charlemagne, and from the Age of Exploration to the Eisenhower administration, the History Department has brought to the boys the background of social progress.

All boys, except those in Classes II and III, have taken history this past year. Although many have grumbled about the heavy assignments, we feel safe in assuming that they all enjoyed the fascinating courses drawn up by Mr. Pearson and his staff. May the History Department enjoy many more years of interesting work.

THE MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

The Mathematics Department takes pains (a) to make mathematics an effective practical tool for all students, especially for those who have elected the M.I.T. preparatory course, which covers more advanced phases of the subject; and (b) to furnish a sound foundation for further study in pure or applied fields. Certainly the solution of many seemingly unrelated problems demands a mastery of basic mathematical principles. Ease and confidence in the solution of such problems come only with constant practice. The Department strives to meet both of these needs, first, by insisting on precision and accuracy in written work; and, secondly, by cultivating classroom discussion of theory and practical application thereof.

THE SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

To the staff of the Science Department falls the responsibility of introducing students to the fundamentals and basic principles. Throughout the course emphasis is placed on the development of scientific thinking, methods, theorems, and techniques. Ample opportunity to develop initiative and latent skills is presented in laboratory projects. Chemistry and physics are presented by an excellent faculty, most of whom have been with us for more than twenty years. The classes are both educational and entertaining. Modern laboratories, complete with the best of materials and apparatus, give the student preparation which will be invaluable in college.

REVOLUTIONARY PERIOD

The English Government, in dire need of increased revenue, imposed a number of unjust taxes on the American colonies. As they were unrepresented in Parliament, the Colonists felt the English impositions were unjust acts of a thoughtless tyrant. Under the influence and leadership of a number of men who saw the danger of England's ever-tightening grip on the colonies, the Americans united and defied King George III. A bloody war ensued in which the poorly equipped Colonials finally managed to outmaneuver the British and allied mercenary troops. Thus the thirteen colonies set their course as a united and independent nation.

SENIORS

SAMUEL ADAMS, Class of 1729

Born of socially prominent parents, Samuel Adams attended Latin School, which was then under the guidance of John Lovell. After graduation, he managed his father's brewery until the Revolution. A prominent member of the "Sons of Liberty", Adams was one of the foremost proponents of states' rights in the country.

JOHN HANCOCK, Class of 1745

The son of the richest Boston merchant of the eighteenth century, John Hancock set out to follow his father's steps in the business world. After the British had burned one of his ships and he had been unjustly accused of smuggling, John Hancock became the sworn foe of the crown. As the President of the Continental Congress and Governor of Massachusetts, he was a prime factor in throwing off the British yoke and helping the United States overcome post-war difficulties.

HENRY KNOX, Class of 1758

A soldier from the age of eighteen, Henry Knox soon acquired a proficiency for the tactical art. He became a close friend and adviser to George Washington and played a vital part in the battles of Trenton and Brandywine. At the close of the war, Henry Knox was made our first Secretary of War.

Class President's Message

We are, at long last, approaching the goal of every Latin School boy — the presentation of diplomas on graduation night. On a night — our night — in June, before an assembly of friends and relatives, we shall be formally recognized as graduates. That evening, which we shall never forget, marks the beginning of a new era in our lives.

Our education at Latin School is not an end in itself; it is merely a means to further the end — namely, self-betterment. Learning alone has little value unless we apply our knowledge to the problems that face us. Our careers at Latin School have taught us to think in a world that sorely needs young men who can and will think. Life is but a series of circumstances and decisions.

One of the greatest decisions that we have had to make is that which concerns our choice of careers. Let us all hope and pray that we have made a wise decision and that we shall be able to realize our ambitions. No matter what our individual choices may have been, we shall all meet again in the future.

Our plans for the future may be uncertain because of the troubled times in which we live. Whatever the future holds for us must not deter us from the task of bettering ourselves and, as a result, bettering our nation. The United States is only as strong as its citizens. We, as citizens of tomorrow, must prove our strength to the world.

On this occasion we wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the unselfish manner in which the members of the Faculty have devoted themselves to the task of preparing us for our roles in the world. To all the many friends and relatives who have borne with us during the past few years we express our appreciation. To Mr. McKim, who has always been a friend, we convey our deepest thanks for his untiring efforts on our behalf. We also invite him to consider himself an honorary member of the Class of 1954.

We, therefore, as a Class, resolve to face life, strengthened by the fact that we are Latin School graduates; and, as such, we have a duty to our school and our country.

Traveling: annual trips in summer to Europe '23-'32

This year finds 301, as usual, a strong contender for Arrow shirts and shoes. Several interesting sights are to be seen in 301. Of course, the boys of 301 are besieged by a group of individuals called "masters."

In 124, a jocund Latin teacher — O'Callahan, by name — is never quite certain as to whether the door should be open or shut . . . Room 306 contains a gay ex-wrestler, Mark Russo, whose favorite expressions are, "Are you looking for an education — you boobs?" and "Take it down; don't look at me!" . . . Mr. Carroll, another of our instructors, can be heard to say, "Speak up" to almost any class. Supreme agony reigns, however, when Sir Francis says, with a snarl, "Take out a piece of paper." . . . Mr. Pearson surely is among 301's most colorful. Facts and reasons are of the essence in 208. Surprise tests are not "quickies"; they are short quizzes.

The last of 301's teachers, but surely not the least important, is Mr. Levine. He watches carefully over his stalwarts, and, of course, his Apporter sheets. Mr. Levine, it must be said, is the school's foremost celebrity and must be commended on a job well done for the class of '54.

After "Bob" Hegerich's booming rendition of the fourth stanza of "America" in the morning, the members of Room 302 go their separate ways to their several classes. It is rare that we, as a class, get together. But seldom as we convene, no one will ever forget Tom Kurey and his noisy clothes and Steve Corman, who runs a close tonsorial second. The more talented faction of the room consists of Tony Malione, Bob McLean, Tom Sotir, Saul Troen, and Keith O'Donnell, who, if they merged their talents, could give Freddy Guerra a run for his money in bidding on the Senior Prom. The lively side of the room is well supplemented by our more lifeless and sleepy brothers, Bill Banker and Dick Goldstein.

A class which a large proportion of the room enjoys is Dr. Callanan's English. Here Pete Lynch and Dave Barnes excel in their efforts to help "Jazz" teach "the little rebels" by spicing the period with amusing anecdotes. . . . In Mr. "Andrew Jackson" Rosenthal's history sessions, the conservative party is the majority party. Leading conservative representatives are Tony Salvucci, Ralph Aserkoff, Frank Carroll, Jim O'Connor, Bob Burkhart, and George Crafts. The party finds opposition in the Senate, however, in "filibustering" Dan Mazzola. The leading radicals during this terms of office are Tom Jones, Barry Weiner, and Steve Hadjiyannis. The politicians of both sides have found that in the type of tyrannical government that prevails, it is advantageous to their marks to think as they wish so long as they write and express themselves according to the way the teacher thinks. . . . The character among characters is "young" Dan Shea. As we shuffle through the "Jack's", we find Jack Boussy. Among the "Bo's" we find "Snowshoes" Ed Grove, and with the "Willy's" we find Bill Koplovsky. Also prominently present is Ray Dowling, whose "slip stick" finds the three-place digits which Mr. Shea finds hard to fathom because "I went to night school, Bo."

Strangers in the homeroom are Larry Bohan and Howard Swann. To account for their scarcity, we might say, "Good things never come in large quantities." To round out this room of versatile celebrities, we find artist Rog Millen, actor Bernard DeSimone, and magazine concessionaire Hank Tamagno.

Advice to students: "Life is far too short and much too complex to give it less than your very best."

As usual, Room 303 stands out as an exceptional Senior home-room. The other classes looked on with envy as a famous French teacher tried to calm them with those soothing words, "They are just jealous of us." The actual returns of honors and prizes won by Room 303 are not yet in; however, a record supremacy over the other rooms is expected. As the honors are too varied and numerous to mention, I will not attempt to mention them.

The efforts of our teachers must not, however, pass without appropriate recognition. Thanks to Mr. Dolan for his inspiring talk "Oratio Contra Meliores Pueros." As we leave the school, we shall never forget those friendly words spoken by Mr. Carroll, which even to this day are ringing in our ears, "Get out a piece of paper." Our gratitude goes to Mr. MacNamara, whose extra course in sign language proved invaluable; and we sincerely hope his forearm heals. In appreciation of Mr. Murphy's splendid instruction, Room 303 takes pleasure in assuring him of our deep appreciation of his pedagogical prowess. It is only fitting that certain teachers receive honorable mention. Thanks are due Mr. Van Steenberger for tolerating the "shtoopid poopils." All we can say for Mr. Cleary is, "Hmmm. Oh, b-r-o-t-h-e-r-." In all seriousness, we would like to thank Mr. Dunn for not only his tireless efforts, but, most of all, for his understanding. As the illustrious members of 303 depart, we leave a battered room and a set of more battered teachers.

This gentle corner of the Senior "right angle" was graced by the glory of 8 "Moes", 9 "Joes", 9 "Beaus", 7 "Kiddos", 4 "Quackwacks", and one "odd fellow." The fact that "Variety is the spice of life" was well proven by this sordid set of squalid "Studenten." With more than one-half of the class in the National Honor Society, the room was well represented in intellectual circles. The several athletes provided the brawn necessary to convince the masters of the urgency of certificate grades. In response to a nationwide plea, the entire room (with the exception of the "odd fellow") took the "Thirty-Day Test", and in a three-to-one ratio it was established beyond the shadow of a doubt that, whether indoors or out, air is definitely milder and that, no matter where one finds himself, he should always remember to breathe. The majority of the boys, having elected Chemistry as their fifth subject, were tutored by "one of the three great Thompsons of science"; the rest were treated daily to the jingling of "Van's" keys. The ever-popular Mr. Shea provided the physics. When the Headmaster promised a Jaguar to the department-head who printed the most "sheets" in preparation for the College Boards, two masters engaged in a cut-throat battle. At this writing, "Hoppy" is leading with a total of thirty-five; but "Muzz", it is reported, has rented a linotype machine from the Boston Traveler and may yet catch up. The residue of the Latin scholars pursued their favorite subject in the "Honking Haven" of 124. The long gap caused by the absence of Mr. Irons was ably filled by Mr. Sheehan and by the impeccable Dr. McCarthy, both of whom found nothing but "right-type" boys.

The class wishes to extend its thanks for their dedicated work to all of its masters — and most of all to Mr. Irons, and to Mr. Foley, who has long since passed to a happier reward.

Dean of Class V

Advice to students: "Work as if you were going to live forever; live as if you were going to die today."

Under the direction of our very capable home-room master, Mr. "Tom" Sheehan, the boys of Room 307 were exposed to the "ups and downs" of Class I, ever hoping that the struggle soon would be over. The day we have all been waiting for is almost at hand, and I think that it is now time to reminisce over our private memories.

We all can vividly remember the "friendly" discussions which were held during the English periods between the master and certain members of the class, who, for obvious reasons, shall remain nameless. Among other things, we were exposed to the fine arts of juggling and terpsichore during our studies of chemistry and Latin. Some of us will never be able to forget — but then again, some will try to forget — those jokes that were "expertly" delivered to us as addenda to The Constitution of the United States. Finally, according to the "computations" of some authorities, you must pooooosh as hard as you puuuull.

From a few of our fellow-students we learned all about "How to Get a Date with a Doll" and "How to Be a Broken Field Runner in One Easy Lesson." Finally, we learned from a reliable source that Greece is still where it was at the time of our beloved friend Virgil.

Hoping that others may learn from our mistakes, we, the boys of 307, do hereby wish fair Latin School a fond farewell.

Hobbies: swimming; waiting for vacations.

Advice to students: "Work hard to get the benefils of a classical education."

Although the boys of Room 333 were probably the most fun-loving in the school, they had the ability to apply themselves when the occasion demanded and thus did justice to both themselves and the school. Under the able guidance of Mr. Mahan, English, Mr. Nemzoff, history, Mr. Lord, physics, Mr. Cleary, Latin, and Mr. Kozodoy, mathematics, the class obtained a thorough knowledge of the required subjects.

The room was well represented in the athletic field. It boasted no less than four members of the football squad, three of the championship hockey team, two of the track team, and two of the baseball team. The many clubs and other organizations throughout the school were dotted with boys from 333.

The sparkling wit of Mr. Mahan, the undeniable courage of Mr. Kozodoy, Mr. Nemzoff's patented "blackboard bounce," the eager anticipation which spread throughout the room as the class awaited the next word from Mr. Cleary's mouth and the pressure co-o-o-kers of Mr. Lord are memories which will not be forgotten easily.

Advice to students: Proverbs IV 5, 6

Although the boys of Room 334 are studying courses preparatory for an engineering college, a number of individuals are intent on pursuing a liberal arts education at (ugh) Harvard. This variety of educational goals may account, in some part, for the room's high scholastic standing. In any event, the heavy curricular burden we bear is made almost endurable by the amusement gained from the masters or at their expense.

Mr. Kozodoy, our home-room and mathematics master, is famous for his standing wager of a strawberry ice cream soda. For Christmas, therefore, we presented him with one and sat drooling as he consumed it. Query: How can a teacher's salary pay for a DeSoto convertible?

Our English master, Mr. Marson, is associated with the memory of thirty-five boys coming into class before vacation singing, "Tell us a story, tell us a story. Remember what you said."

From Mr. Carroll's travel agency (I mean physics class) we come wondering what may be the real purpose of the weird arrangement of levers, dials, and switches on the wall. We refuse to accept the explanation that it is the "Christine" machine.

About Mr. Shea's chemistry class, volumes could be written. Mr. Shea is not only "Out of the books half the time", but probably driven out of his mind the other half. From the mess of broken bottles (Bob), the squeaking of "slip-sticks", and the sweet sound of Mr. Shea's voice intoning "Hearts and Flowers", we did, however, acquire a knowledge of chemistry that will stand us in good stead in college.

From Mr. Godfrey's class we still hear: "Butler, stand up. Sit down. Druker, stand up. Stop that nonsense. Waxman, stand up. You must know something. Five points off your month's mark. Eedelstein"

Of physical education we remember nothing but the ludicrous sight of Martino and Scarpato leading the class in calisthenics.

It would take too much space to enumerate the incidents which caused us so much pleasure and grief. The memory that we shall retain the longest is that of the rivalry of Rooms 301, 334, and 335 as to who will receive the greatest number of scholarships. Vive 334!

JOSEPH WILLIAM HOPKINSON

97 Gregory Street
Dorchester

Class of '23

Boston College: '27-A.B.; '28-A.M.

Taught for one year in New York Hobbies: Music, gardening.

Here '29-present

Advice to students: "Success can be gained only by hard work."

The basic theme of our room's existence this year seemed to be "If only it weren't for physics!" "Die beste Knaben" showed amazing courage in wading through reams of Mr. Dorf, Mr. Hayes, Mr. Moon, 'n so forth; managed to hold up under the strain of Mr. Schiller, Miss Busch, and, in ten cases, some guy named Xenophon; were rather good and, in some cases, excellent in English; excelled in Latin. Then there was physics.

The room was also enlivened by the presence or absence (as in Peter's case) of several "characters." Drachman's questions, Manley's literary efforts, Harrington's "slang", and Zaff's girls provided amusement for all. Especially for the Liber Actorum, your reporter conducted balloting with the following results:

Most Likely to Succeed in the AZA: Joseph Tamer

Greatest "Kidder": "Charlie" Berlin

Best Lover: Nicholas Walsh?

Most Likely to If He Ever Gets There: William Peters

Funniest: Emanuel Schegloff

Most Carefree: Gerald Solomon

Most: Gerald Cohen

Foremost Soccer Player: "Dick" Bennett

Along with frivolities, we managed to carry off more than our share of honors. For this and much more, credit and gratitude are extended by the members of the class to Mr. Hopkinson, who, aided by the strong arm methods of Mr. Desmond, guided us over a path replete with profound pitfalls (namely, physics).

Class Poem

Soon we must leave, Alma Mater.
The future beckons, your older sons grow tired;
We must now take up where they leave off.
Weep not, lest we forget that we are men
And join you in your tears.
Now we go forth to shoulder our responsibilities.
And we are eager to do so —
Eager to fortify ourselves with further knowledge
And to apply that knowledge to peaceful purposes
In the arts and sciences, for the benefit of all mankind.
Thanks to your many, many lessons in democracy
And our appreciation of our tradition and our heritage,
We know what we must do, and we will do it.
One word before we leave
About those who will follow us.
They will be as we were a few short years ago;
Show them what is theirs for the taking.
Be patient with them, as you were with us,
And nourish them with the sweet fruits of learning.
Teach them to hold their heads proudly,
To know that when they sing, "Schola Latina semper pugnat fortiter,"
The whole world is listening
And patiently waiting for them to prove it.
Now, your blessing, Alma Mater,
Farewell. Farewell.

— Keith Wm. P. O'Donnell, 1954

PERIOD OF DEVELOPMENT

The United States was an independent nation, ready to shape its future. A form of government was adopted, and then the country began to develop economic, social and military security. The expansion of the seaboard colonies westward toward the Rockies was interrupted by a war with England and then resumed. We acquired territory along the gulf of Mexico and westward. As is always the case with rapid expansion, however, sectional competition and bad feeling developed. Although the men of the country who possessed foresight and judgment saw what the outcome of heated rivalry might be, the masses of the country swept us on to a Civil War, which ended after four years of irreparable damage and wasted lives.

ACTIVITIES

EDWARD EVERETT, Class of 1805

A graduate of Harvard and pastor of the Brattle Street Church, Edward Everett turned his ambitions to politics. He was elected Congressman and Governor of Massachusetts. Edward Everett firmly believed that the United States must stay united, even if the North had to give in somewhat to the South. As Minister to England and Secretary of State, he put forth all his effort into preserving harmony, both at home and abroad.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON, Class of 1812

Born into a family that boasted a long ancestry of ministers, Ralph Waldo Emerson was also ordained. His claim to fame, however, lies in the volumes of essays and philosophical works he has written. A firm believer in man's right to freedom and individuality, he was a violent opponent of slavery. Ralph Waldo Emerson is justly called America's most quoted author.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, Class of 1817

The son and grandson of Presidents, Charles Francis Adams was born into a family in which national issues were main topics of conversation. As a result, he entered politics and subsequently represented Massachusetts in the House and Senate. As Minister to England during the Civil War, he curbed British assistance to the South. After he had attained prominence on the national scene, he was a foremost contender for the Republican nomination for Presidency.

Farewell Prom

White dinner-jackets, swirling gowns, and crushed orchids from the "Stop and Shop" on Memorial Drive provided an exquisite atmosphere for the year's most colorful and long-awaited social event, the Farewell Prom. Tuxedoed gallants of the Senior Class and their ladies — men of the Latin School are extremely popular in the Prom season — filled the Woodland Country Club on May twenty-first with friendly repartee, continuous handshaking, and "So this is her" (sic).

Dancing was the general order from eight to midnight, and then into the family bus for a short trip to the famous night-spots along the Worcester Turnpike, either The Meadows or the ever popular Slippery Spoon. Chairman Boussy and his Committee are to be congratulated on the success of the Class of 1954's Prom, even though certain members of the Class, who shall go nameless, produced three mothballs in payment of "that last one".

Class Banquet

The annual Class Banquet was held June 1 at the Bradford Room. This Year's gastronomical venture was held in honor of Mr. Thomas R. Pennypacker and Mr. George L. McKim, who retire this year to become honorary members of the Class of 1954. The many Seniors who attended were treated to an enjoyable meal (four dollars' worth) and the business and financial chit-chat of their classmates, who had been working nigh on two weeks. The satiated diners then adjourned for coffee and the traditional cigars, which produced the customary "My, you look green around the gills".

The floor show came from guest speakers, led on by threats that they wouldn't get another free meal, and the genial toastmaster, Mr. Lee J. Dunn.

The credit for planning and supervising the Class Banquet goes to the able committee. A great big fifteen-cent J.A. for the Committee.

Career Day

As a result of the success of the past two Career Days, another program was presented this year. The assemblies, for the members of Classes I and II, were spread over a period of four days, two speakers each day. One of the features of this arrangement was that more time and thought could be given to each speaker and his advice.

The first assembly was held Thursday, March 18, with Mr. McKim presiding. Starting the program was Mr. Sidney Rabb, '16, Chairman of the Board, Stop and Shop Markets. Mr. Rabb commented on the lack of emphasis given to business as one of the professions. The second speaker of the day was Mr. Samuel Silverman, '11, formerly Corporation Counsel for the City of Boston, who pointed out the attractiveness of the law, as well as its demands and its many diversities.

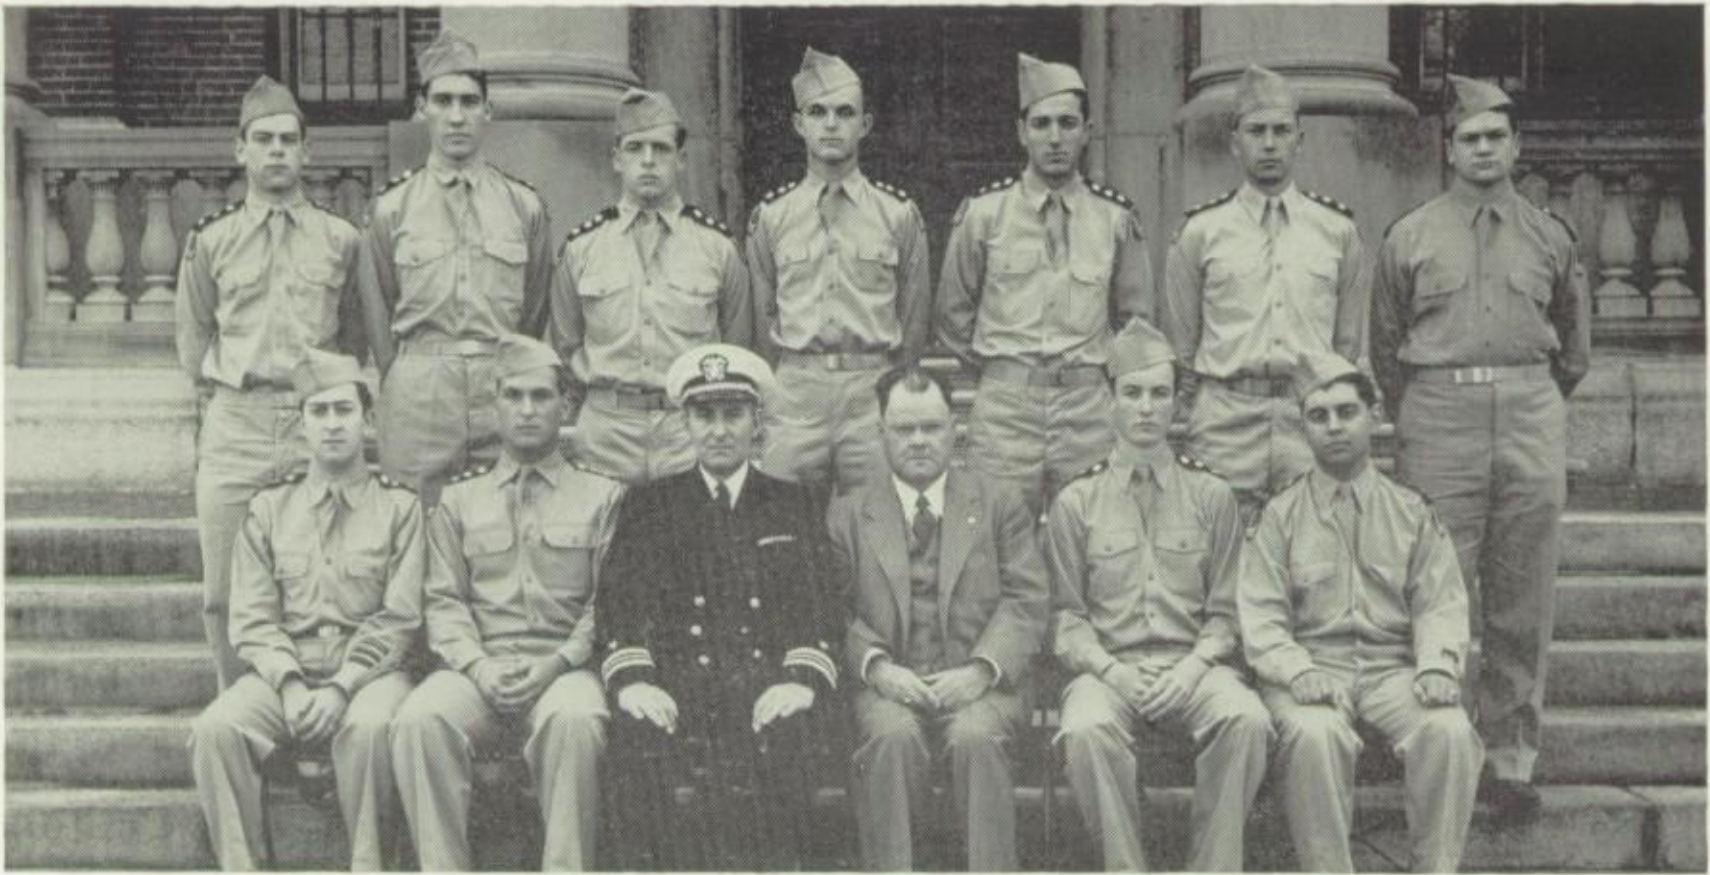

At the assembly of Friday, March 19, Mr. Joseph F. Conlon, '24, Manager of the Hotel Bradford, spoke on hotel work as a career. He noted the restless spirit of the American people in their desire to travel and showed the important part hotels play in satisfying that desire. Mr. William T. Cloney of the Class of '29, Sports Editor of the Boston Post, followed with a discussion of opportunities in the field of journalism. He said that as a result of overcrowding, to get ahead, one had to have a well-rounded education.

Monsignor Edward G. Murray, '21, former Rector of St. John's Seminary, spoke on religion, "the most noble of all careers". He told of the ever-growing need for clergymen, even in areas like New England. Father Murray stated that, although the compensation is nothing exceptional, the personal satisfaction is immeasurable. The second speaker of the day, Dr. John J. Desmond, '05, Commissioner of Education of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, asserted that a great lack of all types of teachers existed throughout the country and recommended the State Teachers College in preference to an education course at a liberal arts college.

The last day, March 23, brought Dr. John H. Holleran, '23, senior surgeon of the Melrose and Winchester Hospitals, to speak on medicine. Boys were interested in the great number of jobs by means of which he worked his way through college. He urged those interested in medicine to become general practitioners first. He said these were lacking, because doctors are now specializing. To complete the Career Day programs, Mr. Robert Parker, '34, a department head of the Jordan Marsh Company, spoke on retailing — buying and selling.

After each speaker had concluded, Mr. McKim conducted a general question period. It is interesting to note that almost all speakers dwelt upon the need for a liberal education as a basis upon which to build.

Prize Drill

The Boston Latin School's ninetieth annual Prize Drill was held at 0900 on Wednesday, April 28, and Thursday, April 29, 1954. Because of a slight mistake in the weather ordered for the day and a "secret" order from the front office "brass," various individuals were noticed entering the Drill Hall wearing "scrounged" ensembles. A possible explanation was offered by the Commander of All Cadets Everywhere: "The show must go on."

The winners of the close-order drill competition follow: (a) 1st Regiment — first, 9th Company, Colonel Warren Becker; second, 10th Company, Colonel Jerome Sherman; third, 8th Company, Lieutenant-Colonel John Boussy; fourth, 3rd Company, Major Robert Spillane; fifth, 4th Company, Major Roy Scarpato; sixth, 5th Company, Major David Anthes; (b) 2nd Regiment — first, 10th Company, Colonel Robert Dunbar; second, 4th Company, Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Martino; third, 8th Company, Major Anthony Salvucci; fourth, 9th Company, Major Charles Schroeder; fifth, 7th Company, Major Michael Lofchie. For those Senior officers who did not "place" in the competition, ties were worn at half-mast for the rest of the day ... Twenty individual citations were awarded to those cadets adjudged most proficient in the Individual Manual-of-Arms Competition.

The Drum and Bugle Corps and the Senior Band provided a special rendition of the "Star-Spangled Banner", if we are to believe members of the Drum and Bugle Corps and the Senior Band. The Drum and Bugle Corps was commanded by Captains John Stebbins, John Saber, and Ronald Gallagher; the Senior Band, by Captains Gerald Kolodny, Anthony Malione, and Thomas Sotir. The exhibition ended with a review of the cadet battalions.

Class Day

"El Choclo" and the cadence of 246 nattily dressed Seniors, arriving from luncheon at the popular Barney Scheff's, signaled the opening of the traditional Class Day Exercises for the Boston Latin School Class of 1954 in the Assembly Hall on Wednesday, April 14.

Mr. George L. McKim formally opened the exercises with the reading of the Headmaster's annual address to the graduating class. The Headmaster immediately thereafter turned the program over to John Arthur Boussy, President of the Class of 1954, who delivered the welcoming address to the Class and its friends. The prize-winning Class Oration was then delivered by Mark Edward Molliver.

The tension of the moment disappeared; the gentlemen of the hour settled back in their seats; and those members of the Class from West Roxbury put their shoes back on. The reading of the Class Prophecy was about to take place. The four mystics — Malcolm Elias, Marshall Horwitz, Herbert Milstein, and Hillel Shore, all of the Irish Mystic Club — did their "seeing" in a fish-bowl with the aid of Sarah and Ghadius, two completely undramatic goldfish. Various individuals of the Class were deeply impressed by the Prophets, especially one lad who had to be coaxed to come out from under the seats. Eh, Hirsh?

The Mystics' rather hasty retreat from the stage was followed by the delivery of the Class Poem, by Keith William Patrick O'Donnell. A piano solo, "Warsaw Concerto," played by Richard Mezer Finkel, and a vocal selection by the Senior Octet (minus one) provided a rather elaborate introduction for the executioners of the Class Will — Irwin Derman, Harvey Pressman, and Frederick Shanfield. A somewhat delicate situation arose when it was learned that "hundreds of scholarships go begging every year." The matter was, however, quickly brought under control; and the three made a gracious exit.

The Class of 1954 was indeed fortunate to have had, as its invited speaker, Mr. Edward Hutchins Hickey, '29, of the United States Department of Justice. Mr. Hickey's address, a timely one, embraced several subjects of particular importance to the members of the graduating class. "We are faced today with the supreme political and ideological struggle of all time. This struggle concerns the choice between a free society or a dictatorship, the supremacy of the individual or the state, the spread of democracy or communism. We must never forget that it is democracy that we are defending, and a democracy to survive must draw its strength from informed citizens living in a free society." It was noticed that the Seniors sat up just a little bit straighter and squared their jaws just a little more firmly. Could be because the lads from West Roxbury took their shoes off again.

The exercises were brought to a conclusion by the singing of the Class Song, written by Benjamin Rapoport and Richard Mezer Finkel. Although it is safe to say that the Class will not win any prizes for its vocal rendition, it is suspected that even Class II, a relatively new patron of the arts, was deeply touched. And why not? One enterprising Senior was passing the hat.

CLASS ORATION 1954

By Mark Edward Molliver

Time rolls on its ceaseless course! Days fly, months pass; and our Latin School career is at an end, leaving behind a host of memories. I believe that today it is fitting for us to take an inventory of our achievements during the past years. Here are a few significant questions for each of us to ask himself: Have I taken full advantage of the educational opportunities offered me by the Latin School? Have I obtained an educational foundation upon which I can continue to build and one which will support a great burden? Have I developed any new interests through the various school organizations? Have I put into practice the meaning of self-reliance, courage, co-operation, and friendship? If our answers to these questions are "No," it is indeed pathetic, for our Latin School career merely represents wasted years and vain effort. If, however, our answers are "Yes," then we are to be highly congratulated for having obtained an excellent education and for having made real progress toward maturity and complete manhood.

It is appropriate for us today to look in retrospect and also to consider the future. Glancing back through the past six years, we recall various events that stand out vividly in our minds. Do you remember being lost in the maze of corridors in your early days at the Latin School? What feeling prevailed over you when you received your first approbation card or misdemeanor mark? Were you impressed by the first public declamation contest? Can anyone forget the numerous assemblies and the sage advice of the Headmaster? We all remember the football games, the prize drill, the schoolboy parade, and the other school activities. All of us know that we have worked hard, but now we realize that we have not worked alone. We would have accomplished very little without the guidance and help of the Masters who taught us. We especially owe a great debt of gratitude to Mr. McKim for his loyalty, support, and hard work in our behalf; and we want to thank him and wish him the best of luck in his new position.

In a short time we shall receive our diplomas and go our separate ways. Some will enter business; others will join the armed forces; but the great majority of us will continue our education in college. We shall leave the fostering portals of Alma Mater and step out into the world in the midst of the most rapidly advancing age in the history of mankind. Our scientists are able to see the furthest stars as if they were but a short distance away. A million human beings can be completely destroyed by man's merely pressing a button. The government has made plans for producing the third atomic submarine; the first one is obsolete, even before it has become wet. If we could have chosen any age in which to live, we certainly could not have chosen a more exciting era than the present.

In the midst of this almost frightening scientific progress, the freedom of the whole world is being threatened by despotic forces preying on the ignorance of the masses. The Communists have been able to dominate their countries because of the lack of free public education. Many years ago Thomas Jefferson prescribed the only panacea for this serious threat to democracy: "I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of society but the people themselves; and if we think them not enlightened enough to exercise their control with a wholesome discretion, the remedy is not to take it from them, but to inform their discretion by education." It is up to us, the Class of '54, to further the educational movement not only in the United States, but in all the backward areas of the world. A well-educated nation may accomplish tomorrow what today may seem impossible. Possunt quia posse videntur. "They can because they think they can."

"To some generations much is given; of other generations much is expected; this generation of Americans has a rendezvous with destiny." These are the words of Franklin Roosevelt. Today they stand doubly true to us who are about to take our positions as the leaders of the world. Today, when the entire earth may be destroyed by the caprice of a few men, it is our obligation to preserve the rights of the people and to destroy all powers that threaten democracy. We must maintain strong, upright leaders and keep the people informed, through education, of any imminent danger to their freedom. Shall we of the Class of '54 be among the last classes? Will civilization be destroyed because we have failed; or will the Class of 1954 begin a new era in a world of fraternalism, peace, and freedom?

You may ask, "What has all this to do with me?" It has everything to do with you: the future of the world is every man's personal responsibility. This especially applies to us who are the so-called "intelligentsia." Learn to live properly with high moral and idealistic standards. Above all, be a good, faithful American. E. M. Statler once remarked, "Life is service. The one who gets ahead in life is the one who gives his fellow-beings a little more — a little better — service." Here at the Latin School we have been given many opportunities to serve. We should now be able to incorporate our resources to serve the community best. Now is not the time to look back and count the laurels we have won; it is the time to look ahead with the determination to work harder than ever before. At the Latin School we have had the privilege of learning how to think clearly and how to work hard. It is now our responsibility to put this foundation to work and to persevere assiduously — not only for ourselves and our families, but for the sake of posterity.

When we seek a position in business or entrance to a college and we present our Latin School diploma, we shall be immediately placed in a very favorable light. It is well-known that any man who holds a Latin School diploma must have superior ability and mental integrity. We have received the great Latin School heritage, an outstanding reputation based on the fact that our predecessors have been extremely successful in all fields of endeavor. We, the Class of '54, must uphold that peerless reputation. We must set a very high goal for ourselves and then strive to surpass all obstacles in reaching it. In doing that, however, we must not forget our fellow-man, and we must live by high ethical standards. Once we have set a goal, we must fix it firmly in our minds and move straight towards it. Qui non proficit, deficit. "He who does not advance, falls behind." Keep thinking of the great, splendid things we want to do; and as time goes rushing by, we should seize upon the opportunities necessary for our ultimate success. Horace Mann, one of the fathers of modern education, said, "Be ashamed to die until you have achieved some victory for humanity."

We are all very fortunate to have been afforded the privilege of attending the Latin School. Carpe diem. "Seize the opportunity." With the background we have been given here, there is no reason for anyone's not being successful if he works hard and strives constantly. When we have marched up the path of life and have reached the golden gate, we can turn around and look back. It will not be an easy road; it should be a road of sacrifice and service to your country. From that alone shall we be able to derive true happiness. We shall always be proud to say, "I am a Latin School boy." Always remember, my Classmates, Finis coronat opus. "The end crowns the work."

CLASS PROPHECY

(Four Swamis, dressed in exotic robes — i.e., bathrobes and dishtowels — are seated around a table, on which reposes a fishbowl containing several tropical fish.)

Elias: Well, Brother Mediums, while we're waiting for a "minyon", suppose we glance into the crystal ball.

Horwitz: I see the beautiful building of our old Alma Mater, the Avenue Louis Pasteur branch of the Boston State Hospital.

Milstein: I see a long line of "the better boys" filing up to receive their diplomas.

Shore: Let's look into the future and see what the fates have in store for them.

In Unison: Splendid!

Elias: I hear the thundering hoofbeats of a mighty stallion. Out of a cloud of dust comes the great sheik, Yosbal Tamer.

Offstage Voice: Hi-yo, Pferd.

Elias: Look who's riding with him. It's Allah Ambrose, the sheik's personal tobacco-mixer. Nick Abdelahad is working for Sibulkin's Street Cleaning Company, sweeping sand against the wind.

Horwitz: I see a large building with a neon sign: "Braverman and Kreevoy — Athletic Emporium. Special reducing exercises, conducted by Mike Kamin and Fred Mannis." There are two professional wrestlers rehearsing for next Saturday's television match. Walter Murphy, alias "Man Mountain Dean," is wrestling "Bantamweight" Bailey Schell. An indoor track meet is scheduled to be held this afternoon. The contestants are Gilfix, Dowling, Luschick, Bolotin, and Loconte.

Milstein: Let's see — there's Tremont Street in downtown Boston. There's a barber-shop, run by Cataldo, Orkin, and Saffer. Their motto is "You grow it; we'll shave it." I see a minute car-wash, run by Barry Meltzer. His slogan is "We wash your car while you wait."

Shore: No; it's "You wash it while I wait."

Milstein: Next door is Sumner's, now run by Corey, Rapoport, and Nick Walshe. Truck driver Charlie Berlin (with his own Van) has just delivered a gross of pink shirts for Izzie Druker. Across the street is Bob Cohen's Kosher Meat Market — "Choice fowl and beef for sale." Paul Martino is the chief slaughterer. Right now I see him in the backyard, butchering cats. There's a recruiting office for the United States Air Force. "Ace" Drachman is commanding officer of the group. Dick Clayton is his wing man. Scigliano is the official plane observer.

Shore: I think we'd better feed the fish now. I've got a bottle of Balboni and Conway's Fish Elixir. (Brings out bottle from pocket, takes a sip, and pours rest into bowl.) I see a steaming tropical jungle in the Amazon. Explorers Solomon and Dorfman are looking for rare fruits. Dick Bennett is looking for a fight. Look! There's Tarzan swinging through the trees and eating a banana!

Elias: That's not Tarzan; that's Irwin Derman.

Shore: Boy, this is the first time I've seen a red-headed giraffe.

Elias: No, no; that's Louis Freedman.

Shore: Hmmm . . . that's a pretty tall anteater . . . No, it's Jason Heffron.

Horwitz: Looks more like Mitch Samuelson.

Shore: Well, let's not argue. Besides, there's a more interesting sight. It's Mike Eedelestein, private first-class.

Elias: I see Boston Harbor, the Carson Beach Bathhouse. The U.S.S. Richard Finkel, commanded by Captain Jerome Sherman, has just docked; and a host of celebrities are disembarking. There's the new ambassador from England, Sir Howard Story Gray Swann, with his stenographer, Viscount Eliot Black. Miltie Kaufman has arrived from Paris with his ballet troupe. Chris Alex is here from Denmark. Rudy Brogna, from the Hegerich Opera Company, has arrived from the old country. Cossack General Klein has come from the Kremlin. They are all being interviewed by the Boston Traveler's correspondents, Bill Manley and Will Strickland. Wait a minute. There's a ripple down there offshore. It looks as if some one is swimming across the ocean. Yes, it's Irwin Dorman, renowned Channel swimmer.

Horwitz: Now I see a bookstore. On display is that famous book about triangular bandages "How to Sling It," co-authored by Danny Kraft and Irwin Alpert. The new editor of Woman's Home Companion is Dr. Roy Scarpato.

Milstein: Now we seem to be in Paris. The newspaper headlines are full of the thrilling exploit of the famous mountain-climber, Elliot Milgram, who just climbed the Eiffel Tower. When interviewed afterwards, he said, "My greatest climb is still Triglav." Chief of Police, Sherlock Homsy, has arrested four American tourists — Anthony Giordano, Seymour Goldwyn, Fred Shanfield, and Ralph Kardon — for chronic inebriation. The Americans claim that they were merely testing the claim of one of their former French teachers that French wine is only ten per cent alcohol. The internationally famous polo-player, Steven Corman, has just arrived to give an exhibition of his rare skill.

Shore: I see the NBC newsroom, with John Cameron Holbrow reporting the results of the latest presidential election. "Silent Cal" Berman is running on the Vegetarian ticket. He's being opposed by the nominee of the Know-Nothing party, Luscious Locke. A third party is also in the race. The Prohibition party's nominee is John "Tom" Collins. "Duke" Shnider says "I am a dark-horse candidate." "Silent Cal's" campaign manager is the ever-popular Ed McDonald. Harv Pressman has hired out his services as a ghost writer.

In the race for United States Senator, Stanley Jacobs is leading Bob "Cat" Croatti. Jacobs' motto is "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar!" The State political machine is under the mature hand of Al Bass. A late news bulletin from Africa: General Lee Gaughan is defeating a strong Mau Mau force led by Irwin Derman. When asked to comment on the difficulty of waging guerilla warfare in the mountainous terrain, Derman replied: "Oooogh."

Elias: This looks like the operating-room of the Mayo Clinic. Surgeon Alfie Kaufman is operating with a slide-rule, trying to install a brain in David Snidman. Ted Gulkin has joined the staff as a male nurse.

Horwitz: There's Burt Minsky fly-casting in Malione's Fish Market. Gerry Kolodny and Ronald Greenberg, the human fly-paper, are catching 'em. Ed Greene's closing the fishes' eyes. Says Greene: "How would you like to have a dead fish staring at you?"

Milstein: That looks like a theater. What does that neon sign say? Hmmm . . . "Minsky's Follies." Those two world-travelling playboys, Ralph Aserkoff and Richard Winer, have just been caught fighting over that voluptuous beauty queen, "Rookie." Says Winer, "Looks aren't everything." The Bohan Minuet Team is dancing to the music of "Jazzbo"

Lofchie. Next door, the restaurant of Gallagher, Gallagher, and Gallagher has hired Jerry Escovitz as chief food-taster. When asked to comment on his new job, Escovitz replied, "Burp!" Morganelli is working in the back room as spaghetti-stretcher. Their best customer is that noted Fink, Arthur. Bob Ferrera is providing the entertainment as "The Loudmouth." Between acts, Herb Waxman sings "No Other Love Have I."

Shore: This looks like the inside of a courtroom. Judge "Honest Tom" Durkin is presiding. Prosecuting Attorney Arnold Factor is going after the (stops and points finger at the others) factors. Steve Hadjiyannis, the undisputed king of the underworld, says, "With a name like mine, the D.A.'ll go crazy." George Hasiotis says, "I'll dig my way out." Tom Harrington says, "I'm too good for their jail; either I am transferred, or I'll go where my talents are more appreciated."

In the next courtroom Alan Ward is on trial for trying to form an international cartel to monopolize the world's supply of perfume. Judge Carl Wolfrum has just ordered a recess because of the absence of the jury foreman, Robert Voegtlin. Seems that Voegtlin is always absent. The next case looks like an interesting one. Jack Stebbins is charged with trying to smuggle horsemeat into the G and G.

Elias: I see vast snow-covered fields. We seem to be in Lapland. Yes, Harold Shelnut, the Lone Ranger, has just arrived with his faithful Indian companion Toronto. The Ranger is on the trail of two notorious outlaws, "Mickey Finn" Seelig and "Dead-Eye Dick" Shea. The pair allegedly held up multi-millionaire banker Joseph Salvo and stabbed him to death with a ball-point pen. Speaking about money, the U.S. government has just announced that it will not collect any income tax this year. Mark Molliver, owner of Chelsea, has agreed personally to pay off the national debt.

Horwitz: The Headmaster of BLS, John Joseph Connelly, has been awarded a certificate for being associated with the school for the longest time. There's an advertising firm: Napier, Nee, Neitlich, and Nelles. Dick Miller is inside, posing for Ipana "Smile of Beauty" ads.

Milstein: This looks like an Army base. Yes, it's Fort Nielsen. Captain Keith O'Donnell has been transferred to the artillery section. He cleans cannons. Corporal Derman has just received a medal for having been in charge of the Army mules for ten consecutive years. Said he, "I've always felt at home here."

Offstage Voice: Boy, is that Derman versatile!

Second Voice: And different, too!

Shore: Here's a residential section of town. Millionaire Joseph Beberman is having a crew of workmen build a palatial mansion. Beberman made his money growing navel oranges in Florida. One of the workmen is Barry Kane, who is laying bricks. Harvey Zaff is getting plastered . . . I mean plaster. Much of the land is inundated; Willy O'Rourke is doing the pumping.

Elias: Kid Carroll's travel agency is arranging a trip to Bangkok for Irwin Derman, who'll probably leave after hearing this prophecy. Says Carroll: "Well, we can't all teach physics."

Horwitz: Attention, Wallo: McLean, chief librarian of the Boston Public Library, is now waiting for a promotion to the BLS janitorial staff.

Milstein: Well, it's time to feed the fishes again.

CURTAIN

PRIZE DECLAMATION

On May 21, at twelve noon, the annual Prize Declamation assembly commenced with the vigorous tones of the B.L.S. orchestra greeting each person entering the hall. Mr. McKim began the exercises by translating the first page of the program (written in the vernacular of the school) in perfunctory exuberance, which gave rise to the opinion that this was not completely sight translation.

After "Fidicines tubicines", the parade of declaimers presented itself. Neil Kozodoy, David Book Pauley, Donald Richard Friary, and John William Whelan comprised the first part of the program.

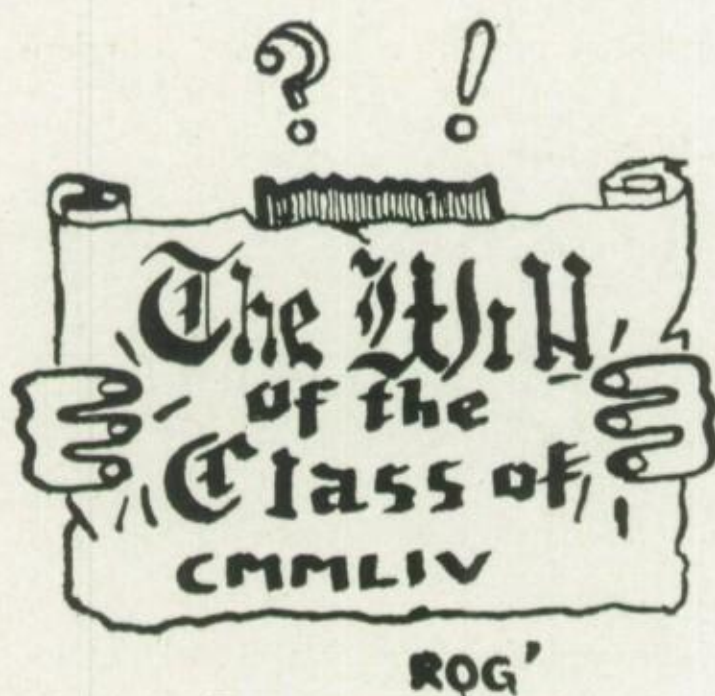

After another "cool Fidicines tubicines", the second quartet of "Declamatores avidi laudis" honored the audience with Edward Haven Pauley, Martin Jay Mirsky, Arthur Henry Martin, and Vincent Samuel Ceglie delivering their pieces.

The audience, represented by ye "Liber Actorum" reporter, wishes to thank Mr. Dunn, the first person in my recollection ever to allow air to circulate freely in the hall. In the atmosphere of new ventilation, therefore, Seymour Lazar Simches, John Francis Dobbryn, Elliot Abraham Milgram, and Herbert Esar Milstein concluded the program.

Robert Lawrence Hegerich, accompanied by Richard Mezer Finkel, entertained the audience with vocal selections and the orchestra played the traditional "Harvard Hymn". Mr. Hopkinson then translated the Latinized tributes to the judges, members of the Classes of 1904 and 1929.

It is interesting to note the scope of the selections delivered by the declaimers: selections from the classical writers such as Shakespeare, the American poets such as Longfellow, the ever popular "Cyrano de Bergerac", and even such contemporary works as "Death of a Salesman".

At last came the portion of the program that had been anxiously awaited by almost one hundred boys: the announcement of the prizes for proficiency during the year in various curricular and extra-curricular activities. To climax these announcements, Mr. McKim announced that the judges had made the following selections for the declamation prizes: Herbert Esar Milstein, First Prize; John Francis Dobbryn, Second Prize; Vincent Samuel Ceglie, Third Prize; Seymour Lazar Simches, Special Prize for Classes I and II; Edward Haven Pauley, Special Prize for Classes III and IV; Donald Book Pauley, Special Prize for Classes V and VI.

CLASS WILL

We, the members of the Class of 1954, being of wearied mind and "all phys-ed" bodies, having passed all sanity tests, loyalty tests, and health tests, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament and bequeath the following:

To Mr. McKim, we leave congratulations for a job well done.

To Mr. Dunn, we leave the singular ecstasy of being able, for the first time, to tell next year's class they're better than the previous year's class.

To Mr. Carroll, we leave a diagram, formula, set-up; ever hear of it?

To Mr. Locke, we leave a pair of suspenders and a belt.

To Mr. Brennan, we leave a pair of red, low-cut sneakers, pink socks, orange trunks, and a Marlon Brando sweat-shirt.

To Mr. Marson, we leave many thanks for his splendid work as assistant dean to the Senior Class ((three rooms, that is).

To Mr. O'Callahan, we leave a pair of pegged pants.

To Mr. Sheehan, we leave the message, "We may not be humorous, but we are certainly full of wit."

To Lieutenant-Commander Cannon, we leave an appointment to the faculty of Tennessee University; They're all Volunteers down there.

To Mr. Mahan, we leave a contribution to the Lunch Room: a big cheese.

To Mr. Pearson, we leave key expressions, source material, a few books . . . 'n so forth.

To Mr. Russo, we leave some poor "boob" who is looking for an E-DU-KA-SHUN.

To Mr. Morton Weinert, we leave the book, "Life with Father" or "A Note from Mother."

To Mr. Levine, we leave a life subscription to Collier's.

To Mr. Avery, we leave a matching set of canary cages and a book explaining their purpose.

To Mr. Kozodoy, we leave the intersection of a yellow plane and a wicked skew line.

To Mr. Godfrey, we leave the record, "Tell me a story."

To Mr. Desmond, we leave the book entitled "How to Win Friends and Influence People . . . and Take Attendance."

To Class II, we leave the many scholarships, fellowships, and loan funds that go begging, literally begging, every year.

To Class III, we leave two more years in an educational Utopia (see a certain issue of Collier's).

To Class IV, we leave our Military Science notebooks, just loaded with facts for the young cadets.

To Class V, we leave our Phys-Ed uniforms and butterfly nets.

To Class VI, we leave several hundred applications to the Solomon Lewenberg.

Though currently involved in bankruptcy cases, the following leave:

Pres. Boussy leaves, muttering "Gee, thanks, fellows."

Veep Levine leaves to teach Veep Stebbins how to play defensive football.

Sec.-Treas. Salvo leaves with a leopard-skin bathing-suit . . . full.

Phinney and N. Walshe leave, singing "Life is just a bowl of cherries."

Kaufman leaves on a tangent to infinity.

Homsy and Tamer leave to join the AZA.

Berlin leaves with Mr. Hopkinson's desk so that he won't be lonely.

Gilfix leaves for the fish market.

Manley leaves to write school news for the Traveler.

Pressman leaves to write the truth for Collier's.

Balboni and Edelstein leave for the smoking lounge above the stage.

Dooley leaves from 312, saying, "The hand is quicker than the eye."

Ed Lee leaves, saying, "If you can't take part in a sport, be one, anyway; will ya?"

Peters leaves almost before he arrives.

The Butlers leave their Toni-Giordano, that is.

Saber leaves, muttering, "There's only one way to get ahead in the Drum and Bugle Corps."

Bennett leaves for the University of Michigan; they're all Michiganders there.

McLean leaves "O Mein Papa" and his new Chevy.

Seelig leaves, taking a Mickey.

Waxman, Druker, Elias, and Horwitz leave to hear Brenda Ball at the High Hat.

Luschick leaves, still making speeches.

Drachman leaves for the nearest kindergarten.

Milstein leaves his Summary Record Card for any and all F.B.I. men to inspect.

Derman leaves for New Haven, saying, "Some things we just can't control, you know."

Schegloff leaves his poetry?

Cronin and Nielsen leave to compete in the National Discus Meet. — The question now is, "Who can throw it farther?"

Kelley, Carriere, Wilson, McLaughlin, and Schroeder leave to take skating lessons from Gundi Busch.

Meltzer leaves to watch Solomon and Beberman polish his car.

Hegerich leaves, singing "Night and Day"; and Minsky leaves, reading it.

Sherman and Finkel leave the stage to shift for itself.

Shore leaves, still a little bit off quay.

Milgram leaves for the top of Triglav.

Ryan leaves to the disbelief of all.

Shanfield leaves the quote, "The play's the thing, wherein I'll catch an A in English."

Snidman leaves Sidman a young, ripe, juicy "n".

Ed McDonald leaves nine hundred and sixty-eight signs for next year's Vice-presidential election.

Burt Minsky leaves to make a life study of the habits of the wild sea-horse.

Dorfman leaves to take a P. G. course at the Solomon Lewenberg.

Shnider, a ten-letter man, leaves to find out what the other sixteen are.

Spillane leaves to re-write Macbeth.

Scigliano leaves a case of ankle-grease.

Goldwyn leaves, singing, "I 'muzzed' last night from 'Here to Eternity.'"

Neville leaves for Robert Hall with his shoulders stooped.

McLellan leaves the Debating Club all alone.

Mahoney leaves to make a phone call.

Robbins leaves to be a stand-in for Liberace.

Troen leaves for Brookline . . . Junior Achievement?

Strickland leaves for Gloria and the Bible.

Tafe leaves to buy a ticket from "Mimi."

Leo Conway leaves, recruiting for the National Guard.

Brass leaves with Arthur Q. Nitrate.

Zimon and Gorodetsky leave, leaving the N.H.S. scriptless.

Winer leaves for Dover Street to sabotage English High.

Martino leaves for M.G.M. with a recommendation from Leo the Lion.

"Harv" Zaff leaves to inspect the Freshman crop at Brookline High.

Daum leaves to keep an eye on Zaff.

Escovitz leaves, muttering, "She's not really skinny; is she, Paul?"

Braverman leaves for New York to observe pigeons.

O'Donnell leaves on his Social Security pension.

Miller leaves . . . Ooooooo, that Pepsodent sparkle.

Mazer, Heffron, Aserkoff, and Clayton leave to take a muscle-building course.

Lofchie leaves for New Orleans, the home of the blues.

Freedman leaves, enjoying the air up there.

Czupryna and Hadjiyannis leave to play the line for Notre Dame.

Bethoney and Kasperian leave hand in hand.

Greenberg leaves from a window on the third floor . . . Don't worry.

Dowling and Bolotin leave, creating a void.

Koplovsky leaves, looking for a ride home.

Klein leaves for Siberia.

Barry Kane leaves to help his "father", Martin.

Hadge leaves an essay entitled, "How to Stay Awake During Class."

Flynn leaves too fast to say good-by.

Factor leaves for the Math Department.

Dunbar leaves his car to whoever wishes to tow it away.

Crowdes leaves to be alone.

Swann leaves his English accent.

Voegtlin, Zyirek, Salvucci, and Jones leave, satisfied that their names are spelled correctly.

"Art" Mayo leaves, mumbling 500 times, "I must wear a necktie during school hours."

Millen leaves for "The Hat."

Risman leaves before every one else.

Rapoport leaves, singing the Class Song.

Black and White leave as far apart as ever.

In witness whereof the Class of 1954 had officially designated this its final Will and Testament and hereby applies the seal of approval of Voodoo Magazine. We are (ecstatic at the prospect of seeing something in a Latin School publication that does not contain Bailey Schell's name) the undersigned perpetrators:

I. Harvey Derman
H. Mendell Pressman
F. Theodore Shanfield

RING COMMITTEE

First Row: Kasparian, DiTroia, Mahoney, Bougopoulos, Bass. Second Row: Conway, Salvucci, Lynch, Carrigan, Dooley, Zaff.

CLASS SONG

Words by Benjamin Rapoport '54

Music by Richard M. Finkel '54

Al - MA MA - TER, LA - TIN SCHOOL, THE TIME HAS COME TO PART; AL -

THOUGH WE GRIEVE, AS NOW WE LEAVE, FOND ME - MO - RIES STIR OUR HEARTS;

DEAR B. L. S., OUR THANKS TO YOU, FOR TIMES WE WON'T FOR - GET, THE JOYS WE'VE HAD, THE DAYS SO GLAD, AND FRIENDS THAT WE HAVE MET.

Chorus:

WE, THE CLASS OF FIF - TY FOUR, SING OUR PRAISE TO YOU; FO -

RE - VER NEAR WE'LL HOLD YOU DEAR, LO - YAL - TY SO TRUE.

Alma Mater, Latin School,
The many things you've taught;
The wrong from right,
O Guiding Light,
The Wisdom we have sought.

You've shown us how to make a start,
And greater deeds we vow;
We'll take the lead,
Your words we'll heed,
And make our final bow.

PERIOD OF EXPANSION

With the close of the Civil War and the resumption of national harmony, the country settled down for a thorough job of reform and expansion. Courageous prosecutors rid the local governments of corruption, and Federal agencies tightened controls. Gradually a peace with the Indians was effected, and the population spread westward. The frontier disappeared in a few decades; it had previously been predicted that the western part of the country would not be settled for several centuries. The United States had finally completed its expansion; it now looked east and west across the oceans and began to assume responsibilities as an international power.

ATHLETICS

EDWARD EVERETT HALE, Class of 1831

A noted author and Unitarian clergyman, Edward Everett Hale was a member of the family that boasted Nathan Hale. A graduate of the Harvard School of Theology, Hale was pastor of the Church of Unity in Worcester, pastor of the South Congregationalist Church, and chaplain of the U.S. Senate. He is most noted for his book, "Man Without a Country."

SAMUEL PIERPONT LANGLEY, Class of 1845

As accomplished physicist, Samuel Langley taught at the U.S. Naval Academy. After several years as director of the Allegheny Observatory, he became a member of the staff of the Smithsonian Institute. Langley, a pioneer in aviation, actually built an airplane. Unfortunately, the plane failed to leave the ground; but a few simple revisions made after his death enabled the ship to soar.

PHILLIPS BROOKS, Class of 1846

Born in 1835, Phillips Brooks received his primary and secondary education at Boston Latin School. At Harvard he studied theology. He exerted much influence locally and nationally as rector at the Trinity Church. Later, he was appointed Episcopal Bishop of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Football

The 1954 edition of the B.L.S. football team was a much better unit than their 4-2 record indicates. Cancellations deprived Latin of two easy victories, and fumbles hampered them throughout the season.

The Purple opened the season in good style as they edged a strong East Boston eleven, 7-6, in the annual Jamboree. In the next encounter, they rolled over Roxbury Memorial, 27-6, in their first Conference game. On Columbus Day, however, Lady Luck and a strong Boston College High squad joined forces to hand the McCarthymen their first setback by a score of 31-14. No less than four B.C.H. tallies were set up by Purple fumbles, and nearly the same number of T.D.'s were thrown away by their costly bobbles. B.L.S. got back into the winning column as they trampled Trade, 31-0, and defeated Dorchester, 28-12. The Purple suffered their second defeat at the hands of South Boston by the lopsided count of 39-12. Once again it was fumbles rather than the opposition which did the damage. This judgment was affirmed by "Steve" White, Southie's coach, at the end of the season when he stated that Latin was the toughest opponent his team had faced. The Purple ended the season on a triumphant note as they downed their arch-rival English 31-19.

Latin was fortunate in having a well-rounded backfield, consisting of Connolly at full, Cullen and Shnider in the halfback slots, and Simmons at quarter. "Boots" Connolly and "Duke" Shnider were offensive standouts and leading scorers, and Joe Cullen was probably the best blocking back in the Conference. Latin's brilliant but inexperienced quarterback, Paul Simmons, started slowly but improved steadily as the season progressed. The alternate backfield was made up of Joe Salvo, Jack Stebbins, and Dick Levine.

The outlook for next year is promising with the return of such standout performers as Casey, Latin's All-Scholastic guard; Dick Levine; "Mad Ed" Donahue; Joe Lucido; "Slash" Johnson; Paul Troiano; and Harry Vierra.

Basketball

Owing to the loss of last year's entire first team from graduation, Coach "Steve" Patten found himself faced with the difficult task of molding a team composed almost exclusively of Juniors and Sophomores. The team did not fare well against their more seasoned opponents and finished the season with a mediocre 4-8 record.

After losing their first contest to Dorchester 54-37, the Purple bounced back to wallop Trade, 55-32. The team dropped their next two games to Memorial, 57-49, and Technical, 58-40, before they broke into the winning column again by trimming the Eaglets of Boston College High, 47-30. In their next three outings Latin was shellacked by a very good English quintet, 77-48; defeated by Technical, 69-50; and edged by Memorial, 48-44. Latin's showing against the strong Memorial squad was probably their best. They stayed with Memorial all the way, and only bad luck kept them from pulling off a major upset. The Purple continued to improve as they edged Trade, 47-46, in their next contest and downed

B.C.H. for the second time, 63-61, in a wild, exciting game. In the final two games, however, Latin met defeat at the hands of the two Conference powerhouses — Dorchester and English — by scores of 45-36 and 76-47, respectively.

Although Tom Bennett was the leading scorer on the team, with 82 points for the year, there was no real standout player. Coach Patten alternated his players frequently, and the scoring was more or less evenly divided among them.

Hockey

The end of the 1954 season found the B.L.S. pucksters restored to the city throne. Ten scheduled games were played without the ice-men once tasting defeat. Hustle, strategy, and determination were evident all season. Paul Kelley, co-captain and League high scorer, and "Art" Carriere, a dependable clutch player, bore the burden of the defensive work — with "Boots" Connelly and Doug MacKinnon also earning their share of glory. The bulk of the offensive attack was carried by linemen Bob Schroeder, Doug Wilson, and Gene MacLaughlin, who were ably relieved by Juniors John Grant, Ed Leahy, and Joe Botbol. The nets were well guarded by "Stub" Altmeyer, who was scored on only six times during the season. It is doubtful whether B.L.S. will ever again be able to boast of such a squad of players as it had this season. Two of the best played games of the season were the whitewashings the team handed arch-rivals E.H.S., 4-0 and 2-0. Although the squad will lose Senior Co-captains Paul Kelley and "Boots" Connelly, along with "Art" Carriere, Bob Schroeder, Doug Wilson, and Doug MacKinnon, the return of Gene MacLaughlin, "Stub" Altmeyer, the entire second-line, and a host of promising underclassmen is to be anticipated. The only disappointment which the team had was its failure to produce in the Met Tourney, where it was outclassed by a Lynn Classical six, 2-0. Post-season awards were made to Paul Kelley, Bob Schroeder, and Gene MacLaughlin, all of whom were voted on the All-City team. Congratulations to Coach Richard Thomas, Managers Tom Carrigan, Keith O'Donnell, and Bob Donovan, and to all the members of the squad for a job well done.

Track

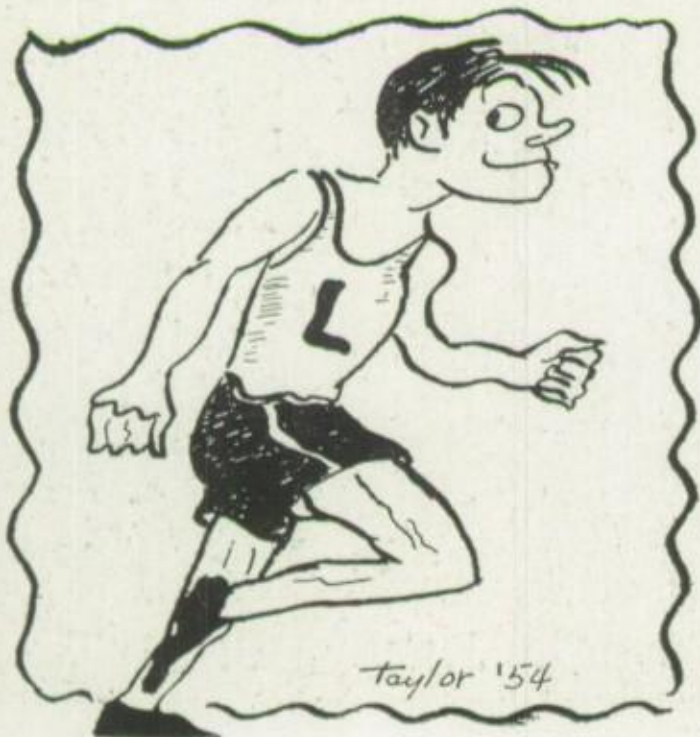

Despite the fact that Latin's track team was forced to relinquish the Regimental title which it had proudly held and ably defended for three years, they compiled an excellent record, garnering three firsts, one second, one third, and one fourth in their six meets.

After bowing to Technical in the first meet, the Purple bounced back to win their next three outings before they tasted defeat again. In the final Quad meet of the season, B.L.S. finished third behind Tech and English, and in the Reggies they could do no better than fourth.

In Class A, Chet Rose was a consistent point-scorer in the "300"; Art Mayo won the 50-yard dash with monotonous regularity; Bob Holtz always finished near the front in the mile; Tom Flynn, captain of the cross-country team, was Latin's hope in the "1000"; Jack Boussy, the Class President, did well in the "600"; Paul Troiano had no equal in the shot-put; and Al Serser was always a contender for top honors in the "300."

In Class B Dave Rosenthal, one of the city's best prospects, scored consistently in the hurdles, as well as in the high jump and the "440"; Art Cahn was a standout in the "440";

Charlie Carp was always a threat in the 50-yard dash; Dick Murray was the Purple's representative in the "220"; and "Hopalong" Doherty showed fine form in the "880."

The standout performers for Latin in Class C were Lieberman, who copped first place in the high jump regularly; Kopelman, who represented B.L.S. in both the high jump and hurdles; Donovan, who continually placed up front in the "600"; and Katz, Latin's best prospect in the "176."

Managers Frank Axelrod, Ralph Goldenberg, Dick Goring, Mike Israel and Coach Charley Fitzgerald should be commended for their tireless efforts to make this year's team a success.

Baseball

Mainly because all of last year's squad, save "Boots" Connelly and "Vinny" Veneziano, were lost through graduation, 1954 will prove to be a year of building for the Purple and White diamond-men. Although no games have been played at this writing, a championship for this club is not impossible. The infield seems to be the least of the problems confronting Mr. Fitzgerald. "Boots" Connelly, a veteran of three years, will hold down the hot corner with Matty Levine and Harry Viera receiving his throws at first, because it is probable that Levine will be called on to bear some of the burden of pitching. Coulon and Hasiotis appear to be the leading candidates for the key-stone sack. Shortstop duties will be in the hands of "Duke" Shnider and Dick Levine. Jack Boussy, Tom Carrigan, John Dooley, and Joe Lucido are all hustling to handle the catching chores. John Stebbins, "Slash" Johnson, Ted Manazir, John Kirk, "Buzz" Becker, Vinny Veneziano, and Charlie Battaglia should all be wary of the old adage "Outfielders who don't hit pay to see the game." The weakest spot on this team may well prove to be the pitching department, which boasts no returning varsity hurlers. According to early indications, Veneziano, when he isn't in the outfield — along with Shnider, MacDonald, Gulkin and MacKinnon — will give their best to keep a winning ball club. Liber Actorum extends its best of wishes for a successful season to Coaches Fitzgerald and McCarthy, Manager Joe Tamer, and all members of the squad.

Row Two: Mr. McCarthy, Roseman, Tamer, Hoffer, Cogan, Lucido, Broaca, Powers, Levine, Daley, Schwartz, Mr. FitzGerald. Third Row: Coulon, Brown, McSwiney, Vieira, Piraino, Tobin, Strom, Yaffe, Gill, Sweeney.

Soccer

The Latin School Soccer Team, in its fifth year of existence, fielded an excellent team, despite the loss of last year's two stars. The outstanding performers on this well-coordinated and powerful squad were Bennett, Budginas, Russman, and Ozols. During the season the team won four games and lost only one. The sole defeat was suffered at the hands of Browne and Nichols. Three wins were against Medford and one was against a private club — the Wilson A.C.

First Row: Sacks, O'Neil, Flynn (Capt.), Mr. Carey, Holtz, Rose, McCarthy. Second Row: Griffin, Daley, Faggette, Epstein, Eagan.

Cross Country

Although hit hard by graduation, the Purple and White enjoyed one of their best Cross-country seasons since the introduction of the sport five years ago. Bolstered by the return of such veterans as Seniors Tom Flynn (Captain) and Chet Rose and Junior Bob Holz, the team came within a few points of retaining the City and Regimental championships.

In the City Meet the team was spearheaded by Flynn, who finished fourth, and Bob Holz, a close fifth. Chet Rose, Danny Eagan, and Jack Dailey were also well up in the pack as the boys from Avenue Louis Pasteur finished as runners-up to a strong English team.

A week later in the Reggies, B.L.S. was once again second to the same English team, that was destined to win the laurels in the State Meet. Once again the leaders of the Purple squad were Tom Flynn, sixth man in, and Bob Holz, in eighth place.

Because of a misunderstanding of the course, the Latins found themselves at the end of the pack at the beginning of the State Meet. Tom Flynn, however, running a magnificent race, passed most of the field to finish in sixth place and lead his team.

In addition to the boys mentioned above, other outstanding performers were Paul Epstein and Joe McCarthy. Jack Maguire, Bill Cahn, and Jack O'Neil also contributed much to the success of the team.

With many of its top performers returning next year, B.L.S. can look forward to an even greater season.

First Row: Sotir, Mgr., O'Donnell, Riordan, Scigliano, Captain, Mr. Thomas, McAuliffe, Holtz, Keefe. Second Row: Cannon, Costa, Walsh, Donlan, Kizner, Mgr., Haglund, Keevey, Tirrell.

Golf

Latin's golfers spread-eagle the field and leave little doubt as to the outcome of this year's competition. Frank Scigliano, one of the top golfers in the state, Bob Holtz, and Joe Brandli compose the big three. All are returning from last year's winning season, the sixth title in as many years. The fact that the latter two are still Juniors gives Coach Thomas ample reason to smile.

The other three positions on the starting team are still in doubt, but will be given to three of the following: Courtney Riordan, Pete Callaghan, Vincent Keefe, John McAuliffe, Paul Donlan, Ralph Haglund, Roger Walsh, Pete Drever, Dick Collins, and Louis Costa.

Besides the regular round-robin competition in the Boston Conference, there will be post-season tournaments. This could be the year when the tee men bring home some tournament victories.

First Row: Kamens, Cerul, Rosenthal, Mr. Thomas, Stone, Watkins, Russman, Cerul. Second Row: LoConte, Mgr., Dias, Hymans, Cogan, Levine, Ward, Mgr.

Tennis

Last year, as in five years prior to it, the tennis team won the City Championship. From the showing made by the team in the early practices, they seem to be a good bet to make it seven out of seven. The squad is composed almost entirely of Juniors, with Mickey Seelig and Joe Kamens the only Seniors on the present squad.

Though the stars of last year's team are gone, there still is a formidable list of returning lettermen, headed by "Bob" Watkins and closely followed by Maurice Cerul, "Dave" Cerul, "Dave" Rosenthal, and "Ronny" Stone.

The squad is rounded out by "Herb" Dias, "Bob" Dussik, and Barry Russman.

First Row: Karys, Natale, Mancini, De Yesso, Costa. Second Row: Rintone, Foley, Kelley, Mr. McCarthy, Nathanson, Weiner, Katsirubas.

Class V and VI Basketball

Compiling a record of eight wins and two losses, this year's Class V and VI basketball team made a creditable showing by finishing second in their league. Except for a few bad breaks, the championship would have been theirs.

The starting five consisted of Ralph Natale, Harvey Weiner, Fred Karp, Frank Mancini, and Joe Costa.

The subs were Dan Nathanson, John Fitzgerald, Walter Kelley, Joe Rintone, Jerry Foley, Joe Deyesso, Nick Katsirulas, and Joe Brogna.

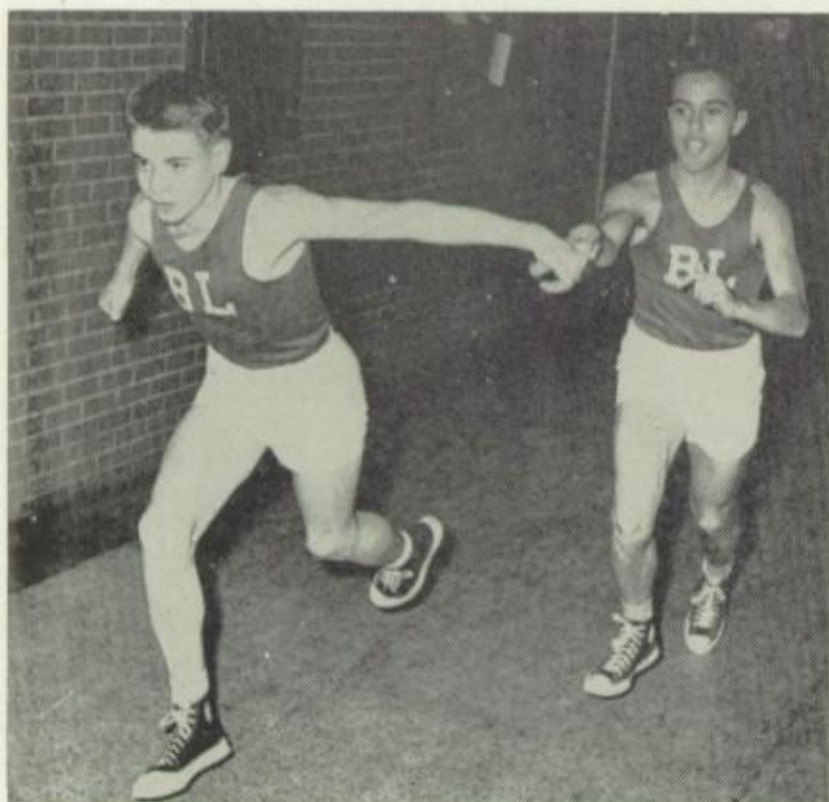

The hustle and drive of these youngsters gives hope that Latin's sagging basketball fortunes soon will reach its former heights.

Class V and VI Track

Latin School's midget track team had another successful season. The highlights were the second-place finish in the Elementary School Finals and third place in the "Little Reggies." Besides the excellent team showing, the following records were set: John Gertsen — Class E 176-yard champion; Nathaniel Graham — tied Class D 49-yard dash; Fred Carp — tied Class E 60-yard dash; Frank Mancini — Class E 120-yard champion.

The other outstanding members of the team were Harvey Weiner, Arnold Lipshires, Joseph LaMarre, Jerry Foley, and Richard McDonough.

The following team records were also set: New Boston Garden Class E relay record in the K. of C. meet and the B.A.A. meet and a new relay record in the Junior "Reggies."

Coach McCarthy says this year's boys were, by far, the best he has had in years and is sure that they will raise Latin School track to a new peak within a few years.

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

Over the past fifty years, the United States has risen from a position of international indifference to one of the mightiest of world powers. From a policy of isolationism, the nation has progressed to a point where it places foreign affairs almost on a par with domestic. Over the past five decades, we have participated in two bloody World Wars and have emerged, by the grace of God, more powerful than ever. It is into a world balanced on the brink of destruction that we, the Class of 1954, are being cast. Latin School men have helped shape history. It will be our lot to help shape the future.

ORGANIZATIONS

DR. LEROY M.S. MINER, Class of 1901

The former dean of the Harvard School of Dental Medicine, Dr. Miner is one of Latin School's noted contributions to the medical world.

ARTHUR FIEDLER, Class of 1913

Nationally renowned conductor and humanitarian, Arthur Fiedler is the creator of the popular Esplanade concerts and conductor of the Boston Symphony Pops Orchestra.

BISHOP JOHN J. WRIGHT, Class of 1927

A prominent American religious leader, Bishop Wright is one of the many Boston Latin School graduates serving God in the ministry.

LEONARD BERNSTEIN, Class of 1935

A noted composer and pianist, Leonard Bernstein finds time to perform his duties as Director of the Institute of Fine Arts at Brandeis University and to write the music for such Broadway hits as "Wonderful Town."

PUBLICATIONS ADVISERS

PHILIP MARSON

As an English instructor and literary adviser to the Register and Liber Aclorum, Mr. Marson plays an important part in molding the characters of many young men.

A graduate of English High School, Mr. Marson got his Bachelor's degree from Tufts College, where at the same time that he was studying journalism he played on varsity teams in football, basketball, and baseball. After teaching at Needham High, St. Paul Academy, Newton High, and the Rivers Country Day School, he became a member of the English Department of Boston Latin School in 1926. After receiving his Master's degree in 1928, Mr. Marson became the founder and respected faculty adviser to the Amalgamated Order of the Aardvark.

LEE J. DUNN

Innumerable Seniors are deeply indebted to our Senior adviser, school librarian, and adviser to the Liber Aclorum for aiding them and bringing about a satisfactory solution to their problems in selecting and being admitted to a college.

He was graduated from B.L.S. in 1928 and was awarded his Bachelor's degree from Teachers College. As an active member and officer of the Alumni Association, he has done much to maintain the good name of Boston Latin School.

During the very few moments that he is not busy with Senior problems, Mr. Dunn finds enjoyment in athletics and photography.

AARON GORDON

As business adviser to the Register and yearbook, Mr. Gordon is saddled with the responsibility of seeing that our publications do not run into a deficit.

A member of the Boston Latin School Class of 1923 and the Harvard Class of 1927, Mr. Gordon prepared for his teaching career in history and German. Since his arrival in B.L.S. in 1929, his contributions to extracurricular activities have not gone unnoticed.

As is typical of many teachers, Mr. Gordon enjoys a "busman's holiday" during vacation when he acts as administrator of a summer camp.

ALFRED ROSENTHAL

A history teacher and business adviser to our school publications, Mr. Rosenthal is pleasantly associated in the minds of the student body by those with whom he deals on the Register and by those with whom he deals in the classroom.

After graduating from Boston Latin School in 1929, he attended Harvard, where he was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa key. He came to teach at Latin in 1935.

The shock of the January College Boards was still causing most Seniors to walk around in a state of morbid depression, when the staff of the Liber Actorum was assembled for the first time and told what was what. It turned out that the Executive Committee was to be responsible for meeting the deadline of April 1. Within the months of February and March they and their assistants were to compile almost five hundred illustrations, the records of more than two hundred fifty Seniors, thirty organizations, eleven athletic teams, and seventy masters. As a result, the lethargy of a number of Seniors was miraculously transformed into incessant activity. The results of their bustling may be seen on the one hundred sixty odd (used advisedly) pages of this year-book.

How mistaken are those that think a large school, such as Boston Latin, has no trouble raising the necessary thousands of dollars for an elaborate publication. The livid bruises on the bodies of certain Seniors illustrate the extremes to which members of the Business Staff had to go to collect the money from the members of Class I.

In all seriousness, however, not only the yearbook staff, but the whole Senior class is grateful for the countless hours devoted by our advisers — Mr. Marson, Mr. Dunn, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. Rosenthal — in order that this memento of their years at Boston Latin School may be a source of pleasure and pride to the members of the Class of 1954.

If you should walk through the door of Room 235 during any home-room period, you would probably get the impression that a portion of bedlam had been transported to the halls of B.L.S. Out of the chaos, however, come the essentials of what we proudly consider a good magazine.

Messrs. Marson, Gordon, and Rosenthal usually are stricken with an acute attack of high blood pressure as deadline grows near — the first-named because of the scantiness of the “accepted” folder as compared with the “rejected” folder, and the latter two because of the cost of printing the extra pages we annex to the normal forty. For a group of individuals with little knowledge of the English language (according to the “Chief”) and no business sense, the staff does manage to put out a profitable magazine with reasonably high literary quality. Our winning a first prize in the national interscholastic competition of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association seems to be substantial proof of the Register's merit.

As guests of the Boston Globe's High School Editors Club, the members of the staff enjoyed a number of parties and special showings of such movies as "Julius Caesar", "Hamlet", and "The Best Years of Our Lives." We look forward to the publication of the results of the "Globe's" contest, hopeful that we may continue the precedent set by last year's issue as the outstanding high school magazine.

We hope that next year's staff may make the 74th year of publication the most successful in the history of the Register.

Early in the spring and again this fall, five men sombrely filed into an office to select members for the National Honor Society. After the choices of Messrs. McKim, Dunn, Levine, Pearson, and Cannon were announced, the inductees were initiated into the Boston Latin School chapter of the N.H.S. at two initiations held in the Assembly Hall.

No sooner had the roster been compiled, than a number of members with considerable ability in salesmanship were selected to convince the student body that loyalty to their country could be best manifested in the buying of United States Savings Stamps. Considerable success can be reported.

This year, the members of the National Honor Society unanimously approved a new method of serving the school which has brought praise from civic leaders. Members of the lower classes who were finding difficulty in becoming adjusted to the heavy curricular load received free tutoring from members of the N.H.S. Each day at 7:45, a half-hour session of instruction took place. The only complaints received thus far were from a group of West Roxbury tutors, who claimed that stagecoaches don't begin to run until eight o'clock.

At this writing, the Honor Society is considering a Review and an N.H.S.-Faculty basketball game. In whatever activities they sponsor, members always consider their value in relationship to the objectives of the Society: the promotion of Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character.

Wise Old Aardvark Mr. Philip Marson

The Amalgamated Order of the Aardvark held irregular meetings throughout the year to determine how they might best further their ideals: lethargy, gluttony, indifference, and lack of co-operation. Members were treated to choice cuts of "bees' knees and flies' eyes" at the annual banquet, at which Mr. Marson gave a fine address on the timely topic "Aardvarkiana vs. Communism and/or McCarthyism."

One of the high spots in the year's activities was the induction of Bob Clayton, popular disk jockey, into the A.O.A. On the "Boston Ballroom" record program, Aardvarks Derman, Nielsen, Pressman, and Waxman presented an Aardvark lapel pin to our illustrious record-holding alumnus.

It is hoped that the members of the A.O.A. in years to come will adhere to its standards and its motto, "Aardvarkia Uber Alles." Of this year's members we may only say, "Facies tantum a matre amata."

Despite repeated and insidious sabotage attempts by the Russian government either to steal or destroy the astounding aeronautical developments of this organization, the Aviation Club has successfully completed its annual series of meetings.

Lectures and films were offered to acquaint the members with the various phases of aviation. Electronics, engines, and plane structure were among the topics discussed. The Club conducted a field trip to Logan Airport, where it observed airport operation, plane-overhauling, etc.

Leonardo Da Vinci and Samuel Johnson were among the first to speculate on human flight. Since then, men in increasing numbers have turned their eyes to the sky, "that magical roof fretted with golden fire"; and even to the stars, "the beacons of eternity." They have succeeded in reaching the former; the labors of science and the hopes of man are directed toward the attainment of the latter.

"Steerike!" No, it's not a baseball game. It's just one of the top bowlers of Latin School's Intramural Bowling League dropping ten with one on a Friday afternoon at Huntington "55" Alleys. Twenty-four teams competed in the hot race for the championship as the newly reorganized league swung into high gear. At the play-offs in the latter part of March, the Juniors from 134 defeated 301. The championship team kept score for Brass, Goldwyn, Giordano, Freedman, and Abdelahad. The high string of the season was Goldwyn's rocketing 126, while Bresnick's 325 took the honors in three-string competition. The "top ten" were Goldwyn (93.6), Derman (93), Bresnick (92.9), Weitz (92.6), Sinkus (91), Leeco (90.6), Lubitz (90.3), Malione (90.1), and Collins (90.0). Orchids to Mr. Thomas for a most successful season.

Camera Club

President B. J. Minsky
Vice-President James O'Connor
Secretary Mark Molliver
Treasurer Larry Bohan

Shutterbugs, attention! The Camera Club is back among the list of active clubs. Under the able tutelage of Mr. Dunn, the "flash-men" learned how Joe Zilch would go about buying a camera, putting film in it, operating a strobe light, and taking and developing the all-important snapshots. The Polaroid "Land" Camera was dissected at one of its meetings; and, although a spy was heard muttering, "I don't believe it", the working of this wonderful piece of machinery was explained. Another speaker recalled the early days of photography in a talk that interested even the most blasé senior. Congratulations (and a box of flash-bulbs) to Mr. Dunn for a good year.

Chess Club

President Elliot Milgram
Vice-President Maurice Cerul
Secretary Emanuel Schegloff
Treasurer Alan Drachman
Sergeant-at-Arms Richard Luschick

"KP—K4" and "QB—K2". Despite the protests from the Science Department, these are not the answers to the Chemistry final. They are "Chess notations", a form of shorthand that enables a "chess-man" to record a whole game on a piece of paper about one-twelfth the size of this page. Besides writing shorthand, the members of the Chess Club have engaged in intramural meets on alternate Thursdays and have finished in second place in interscholastic competitions. The Lower Class members have high hopes of bringing the championship back to Latin next year. Best wishes to Mr. Van Steenberg for a season just a little bit better than the excellent one just past.

Debating Club

President Harvey Pressman
Vice-President Henry Tafe
Secretary Anthony Giordano
Treasurer Michael Seelig
Sergeant-at-Arms Herbert Waxman

"Should pigeons be allowed on the Boston Common?" This and other burning questions of the day were among many discussed by the silver-tongued "sea-lawyers" of the Debating Club this year. Some of the others were the following: "Resolved: that the United States should subsidize the education of intelligent orangutans"; "Resolved: that Drew Pearson and/or Walter Winchell be invited to write for the Register"; and "Resolved: that the United States Senate investigate alleged black-market baby rings in Timbuctoo." The magnificent speeches of the contestants in the Assembly-Hall forums were surpassed only by the equally magnificent orations of the members of the audience; i.e., those who accepted the invitation to "ask questions."

President.....Edward Robbins
Vice-President.....John Phinney
Secretary.....Winslow Green
Treasurer.....Thomas Sotir

Poetry

President.....Eliot Milgram
Vice-President.....Nicholas Walshe
Secretary.....Isaac Druker
Treasurer.....Herbert Milstein

Although serious conflict often threatened when either faction sought to monopolize the meetings, the predominant attitude among the members of the Fine Arts Club was one of tranquil aestheticism. They were afforded through the year a varied and sumptuous fare of beautiful things, whether in the form of metrical verse or polyphonic melody.

This body of intellectuals has had frequent and enjoyable meetings at the home of its director, Mr. Flynn. It wishes to offer its gratitude for his indulgence and generosity.

Recordings from the master composers were played, and poetical works were read and discussed. The Club was singularly privileged in having a cellist from the Boston Symphony give a private concert.

The arts are the culmination of a nation's achievements, and this organization encourages their study. They are the pursuits which "nourish the youth and delight old age."

French Club

President Thomas Harrington
Vice-President Robert L. Homsy
Secretary Richard O. Neville

"He who speaks two languages is worth two men," proclaimed one immortal Frenchman, Napoleon Bonaparte; and the membership of this year's French Club heartily endorses his words. Under the vigorous supervision of Mr. Levine, the Club attempts to familiarize its members with both the language and culture of France, that "gay, sprightly land of mirth and social ease."

Rodin, Molière, Jeanne d'Arc, the Bastille, Eiffel Tower, and the Tuileries are some of the salient topics discussed. In addition, the use of oral French is encouraged. The Club is fortunate in having as President an accomplished authority on the language.

In its enthusiasm and scope, the French Club is one of the outstanding organizations in the school.

German Club

President Richard Bennett
Vice-President Aaron Bikofsky
Secretary Theodore Gulkin
Treasurer Joseph Beberman

The programs of the German Club during the past school year have been both entertaining and instructive. Under the devoted and capable leadership of Mr. Newman, the Club has added several new features. The meetings are now conducted in German, and at least one talk is held in that language during each session. At each meeting, a wide selection of topics concerning German life and culture is discussed. These subjects range from current events to medieval literature and from music to heavy industry.

The high point of the year was the showing of the German language film, "Emil und die Detective", to which all the students of the school were invited by the Club.

Geography Club

President Robert Miller
Vice-President Christos Banos
Recording Secretary Arthur Polansky
Corresponding Secretary Francis Cox
Treasurer Richard Miller

Lest any disgruntled senior complain at the large helpings of geo-politics dished out in the classes in military science, Lt. Cmdr. Cannon need only point to the members of the Geography Club, all of them from the lower classes, who have joined the Club for the purpose of learning more about geography and its importance in this era of world crisis. This objective was achieved by numerous discussions, movies, and actual excursions. One of the most interesting movies was one entitled, "Harvesting Orange Peels in Tanganyika." The members gained an extensive knowledge of the topography of India by their trip en masse to the Metropolitan Theatre for a sneak preview of "King of the Khyber Rifles." A motorcade to the Fiji Islands was called off only at the last moment because it would have necessitated the boys' missing their regular phys. ed. period.

Greek Club

President Henry Tafe
Vice-President Joseph Tamer
Treasurer Fredrick Shanfield
Secretary James Bougopoulos

Contrary to a current popular witticism, when Greek meets Greek in Latin School, the result is a Greek Club under the scholarly supervision of Mr. Locke. The group assembles for the purpose of cultivating a renewal of interest in Grecian antiquity. Members have given lectures on Grecian art, literature, and customs. "The Story of the Iliad", "The Greek Orthodox Church", "The Life of Socrates", and "The Life of Homer" were the outstanding topics of discussion.

"The woods of Arcadia are dead,
 And over is their antique joy."
 is the lament of the poet. The members of the Greek Club refute that sentiment, and try to keep the "glory that was Greece" ever present in men's minds.

First Row: Mayo, Saber, Kondi, McLellan, Burkhardt, Butler, sgt.-at-arms, Dunbar, treas., Mazer, vice-pres., Mr. Bergen, Sherman, pres., Weiner, secy., Snidman, Poulos, Koplovsky, Sidman. Second Row: Rose, Kurey, Hirtle, Clark, Zalkind, Finkelstein, McLean, Nolan, Novack, Clifford, Factor, Dobkin, Collins, Mazzola, Kreevoy. Third Row: Barry, Wilson, Cullen, Kamin, Winer, Lee, Scarpato, Bennett, Groves, Boussy, Flynn, Misiewicz, Ambrose, D'Arcy, Gallagher, Weldon.

At the first meeting of the Highway Safety Club, officers were installed, and the central theme of "attitude" was chosen. This single word is the outlook which directs the application of driving necessities such as courtesy, sound judgment, and will-power.

At an early meeting, a forum was held on the Massachusetts Motor Vehicle Law. The members of the panel were Sherman, Weiner, Burkhardt, and Hirtle. Most of the membership took part in what became one of the most interesting, informative, and successful meetings in the history of the organization. Varied topics from car repairs to style trends were discussed.

Mr. Bergen, the club adviser, secured many pamphlets on driving, which were thoroughly talked over by the entire membership at the meetings. At later meetings, Mr. Bergen gave tests which covered driving material from fundamental laws to common-sense road occurrences. These tests were corrected and debated during the meetings.

A consistently large attendance showed the great success of the open classroom discussions. Saved for the end of the year is a short list of films, headed by "A Day in Court." Several prominent men from local insurance firms will be guest speakers.

First Row: Zolot, Dowgiallo, Maffei, Fumarola, Solomon, Haglund, Sullivan, Brown, Hamelburg, Mr. Bergen, Harris, Markey, Collins, Seegraber, Goring, Cohen, Budginas. Second Row: Bello, Meehan, DeSimone, Baden, Mazzuchelli, Murray, Deane, Dias, Noonan, Arcieri, Bello, Abrams, Griffin, Curley, Hymans, Brown, Richman, Kenney, Gould. Third Row: Pereira, Fox, Holtz, Grossman, Cusato, Hurwitz, Savitz, Schwartz, Gerstman, McLaughlin, O'Connor, Hourihan, Palmieri, Stein, Kramer, Weitz, Miller, Lubitz, Memmolo. Fourth Row: Menzer, Roseman, Carras, Winn, Weisberg, Rosenthal, Snetsky, Sacon, Zilinskas, Wolff, Gordon, Rosenberg, Richman, Sezak, Kales, Sava, Mullen, Watkins. Fifth Row: Conley, Blaney, Doyle, Keefe, Eichenwald, Farbman, Barash, Powers, Watson, Tobin, Serfer, O'Leary, Garrity, Uni, Troderman, McCool.

Key Club

President Richard Finkel
Vice-President William Manley
Secretary Joseph Salvo
Treasurer Bruce Nielsen

Contrary to the implication in its name, this newly established club does not occupy itself with locking and unlocking doors. It is a group sponsored by businessmen for the purpose of guiding youth. The Club institutes and undertakes projects beneficial to the school.

The Student's Guidance Committee is its outstanding achievement. Its purpose is to allow older students to direct delinquent and refractory pupils into ways of proper conduct. The Club has also organized an anti-vandalism campaign. It plans to organize a school store. Members have volunteered to work in nearby hospitals. They are advocating the establishment of a shorthand-typewriting course at the School.

Their director, Lt. Cmdr. Cannon, continually urges the members to exercise initiative; and their achievements thus far demonstrate the value of his advice. The Key Club promises to be the most active organization in the school.

Latin Club

President Charles Berlin
Vice-President Theodore Gulkin
Secretary Thomas Harrington
Treasurer Gerald Solomon

Although members of this august body cherish proudly the distinction, originally ascribed to Shakespeare, of knowing "little Latin and less Greek", they have, nevertheless, shown uncommon zeal this year in the study of classical antiquity.

The activities of the Club encompass an extensive field. Geller, Harrington, and Berlin — acknowledged etymological experts — gave frequent talks. Other members contributed to the proceedings with mythological acrostics and lectures on architecture, writers, and botanical designations.

The often irreverent treatment of some Latin notables has probably aroused much indignation in those regions beyond the Styx, but it was all in the interest of science. It is the belief of the membership, ably directed by Mr. Miller, that it has gained some conception of "the grandeur that was Rome."

Literary Club

President Herbert Waxman
Vice-President Philip Balboni
Secretary William Peters
Treasurer Robert Butler

"Books are the children of the brain," said Jonathan Swift; and, indeed, they form the very foundation of learning. In support of this principle, the Literary Club seeks to increase its members' comprehension of the great literature of our language.

This year the Club has concentrated on contemporary writers. Oral reports were given on Sinclair Lewis, Ernest Hemingway, and Eugene O'Neill. The motion pictures "Hamlet" and "Julius Caesar" were discussed. The members are pleased and hopeful over the current renewal of interest in Shakespeare.

One member attempted to lecture on the rhetorical merits of an edition of "Loony Tunes", but several alert colleagues prevented the blasphemy. For two months thereafter, the bust of Shakespeare was draped in black.

Members are grateful for the guidance of Dr. Callanan. They feel that their journeys into the realm of letters have been profitable. They remember the words of Francis Bacon: "Reading maketh a full man."

Mathematics Club

President John E. Cronin
Vice-President Roy R. Scarpato
Secretary Joseph A. Lupi
Treasurer George Miller
Sergeant-at-Arms Paul A. Martino

"Screech!" went the slide rule as a member tried to solve an equation in higher mathematics. The indicator came to rest on "six." The bewildered student turned to write the answer for the multiplication of three times two. Groans may be heard on alternate Thursdays during Mathematics Club meetings, as various members try their skill with the gigantic slide-rule hanging on the back of Room 220 in the solution of problems in analytical and descriptive geometry.

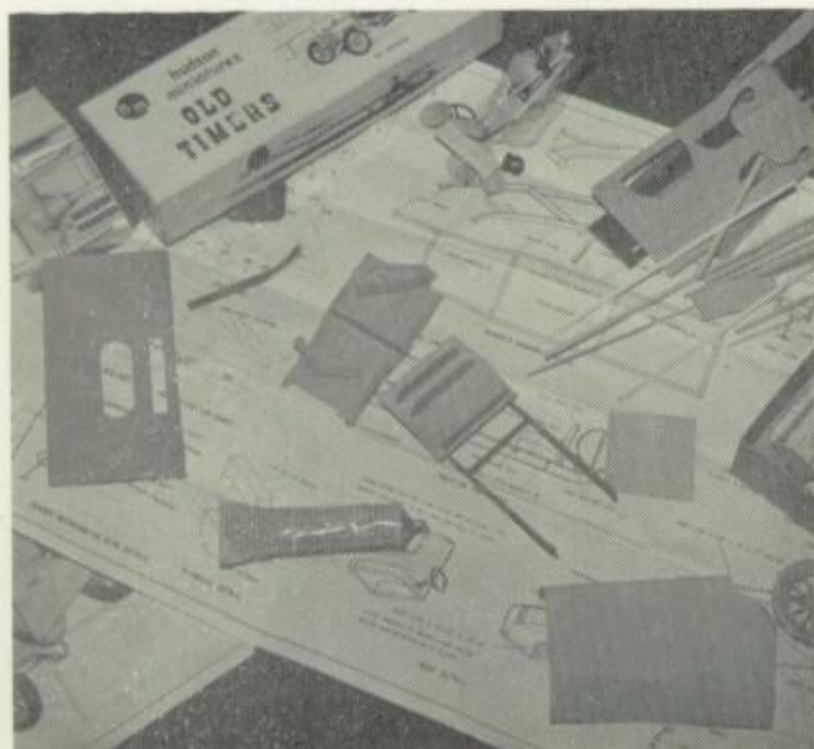

On rare occasions guest speakers expound some problem of interest. Among the notables who have appeared, Alfred Kaufman gave a learned dissertation on calculus. Whenever speakers run into difficulty, Mr. Arnold Greenhalge, the club's adviser, is present to lend a helping hand or a logbook, whichever is needed. The Mathematics Club is a valuable supplement to classroom work.

Model Crafts Club

President Daniel Kraft
Vice-President James Seluta
Secretary Paul Donlon
Treasurer Richard Barringer

Amidst the incessant pounding of hammers, creaking of screwdrivers, buzzing of power-saws, and staccato rattling of pneumatic drills, the meetings of the Model Crafts Club, held every two weeks in Room 327, brought the Club to one of its most successful seasons. Declining an offer from the United States Government to aid in the construction of a super-carrier, the budding geniuses confined their talents to the more common forms of handicraft. It has been rumored about town, indeed, that the Museum of Fine Arts has reserved an entire floor for the creations of the B.L.S. Da Vinci's.

Modern History Club

President Joseph Tamer
Vice-President Seymour Goldwyn
Secretary Mark Molliver
Treasurer Frederick Shanfield

The Modern History Club is again involved in a study of world politics. A member of the United Nations came to speak before the group; but not all of the talent has to be imported. The club has, as its President, an expert on Arabian culture and tradition. He held the group enthralled as he imparted some of his knowledge to them.

The main objective of the organization — to inform the members of current world problems — has been achieved through a series of talks. As important events occur, they are discussed at length by the membership.

Thus, the group, under the guidance of Mr. Paul Pearson, Head of the History Department, is continuing to provide information that one would not likely find in our Boston newspapers.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

Issuing forth from the rehearsal rooms in the basement may be heard, almost any day, the sweet tones of the Orchestra, the impressive rhythm of the Band, and the ear-shattering blare of the Drum and Bugle Corps. Resonant tones have so permeated the basement that it has been necessary to soundproof the lunchroom to allow the hungry students to eat in peace.

Credit is due the boys of the Orchestra for their performances at assemblies. Mr. Joseph A. Trongone has the rare knack of being able to make good musicians of lower classmen. Our numerous contributions to the Boston Public Schools' Symphony Orchestra and Band bear witness to Mr. Trongone's success.

Under the leadership of Captains Gerald Kolodny, Anthony Malione, and Thomas

Sotir, the Band put on a sparkling performance at the English-Latin game last Thanksgiving. Mr. Trongone is again to be complimented upon turning out another excellent musical organization. Should the Band fail to take top honors in the Schoolboy Parade this year and break their umpteen-year record, it will be the surprise of the century.

For the past six years, we have seen the Drum and Bugle Corps go through their difficult formations at the Prize Drill exercises. This year, under the guidance of Captains John Stebbins, John Saber, and Ronald Gallagher, the Corps plans to outdo its predecessors. If their performances thus far this year are an indication of their skill, they should have no difficulty attaining their goal.

Radio Club

President Richard Finkel
1st Vice-President Mark Molliver
2nd Vice-President John Dobbyn
Secretary-Treasurer Alphonse Vasquez

Dot-dot-dot went the transmitter; dash-dash-dash hummed the receiver. Over the door hung a sign "Hams at Work — Do Not Disturb." The Radio and Morse Code Club has again been training boys for the amateur radio examination given by the Federal Communications Commission. Upon receiving the amateur license, any member is allowed to use the club station WITEM. This station is powerful enough to reach any place in the United States, Canada, or even Zululand.

In addition to learning the Zulanes language from the hams of that part of Africa, the members have been learning much about emergency broadcasting in case of a national disaster.

Red Cross Club

President Jerome N. Sherman
Vice-President Arthur Mayo
Secretary Saul Troen
Treasurer Michael Edelstein
Sergeant-at-Arms Robert Ferrera
Faculty Adviser Mr. William Powers

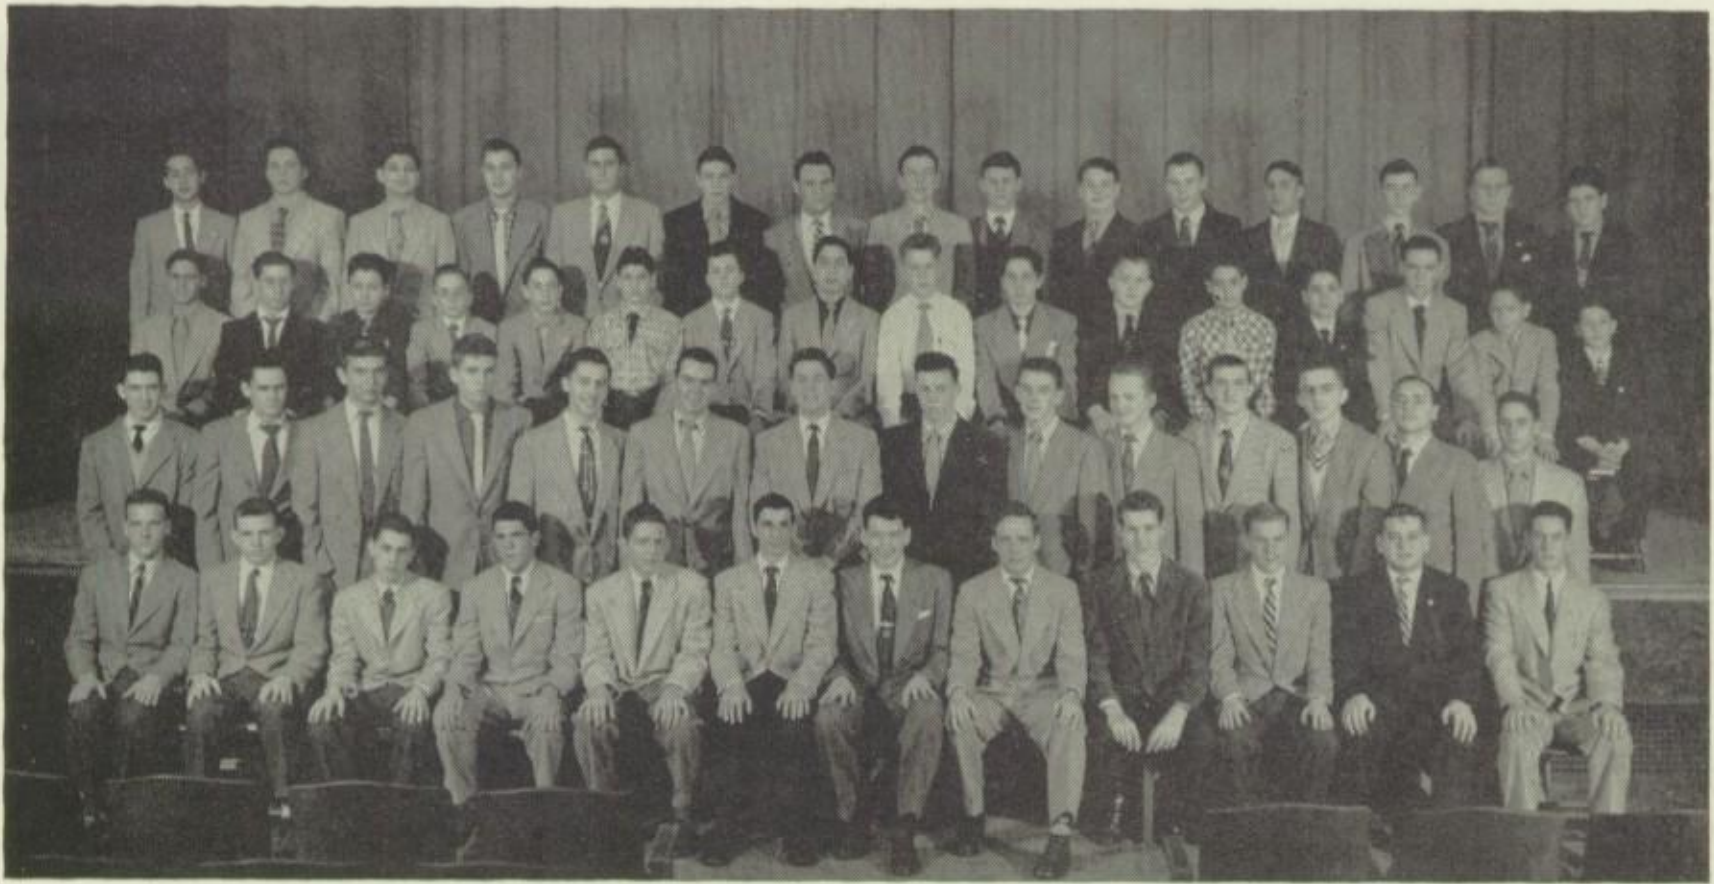

Continuing with its policy of former years, the Red Cross Club attempted to increase and promote the many different activities of Junior Red Cross.

Again this year, its members volunteered their services at the Massachusetts Regional Blood Center and at the Red Cross Chapter House. The representatives who attended the meetings of the Junior Red Cross High School Council were able to exchange valuable ideas with the representatives from other schools.

The Club was very fortunate to have as a guest speaker Mrs. Bernard W. O'Keefe, the Assistant Director of Junior Red Cross, who stressed the various projects and purposes of both Junior and Senior Red Cross.

The officers and the members express their sincere thanks to Mr. William Powers for his helpful guidance and co-operation in all undertakings.

Sailing Club

"I'm on the sea, I'm on the sea, I am where I would ever be." This sentiment, wrought by the pen of Barry Cornwall, is surely founded deep in the hearts of all those appreciative of the beauty and mystery of the sea. Sailing has always been tinged with a glow of romance. We can well understand the interest shown by this year's Club in the dissemination of the science of sailing.

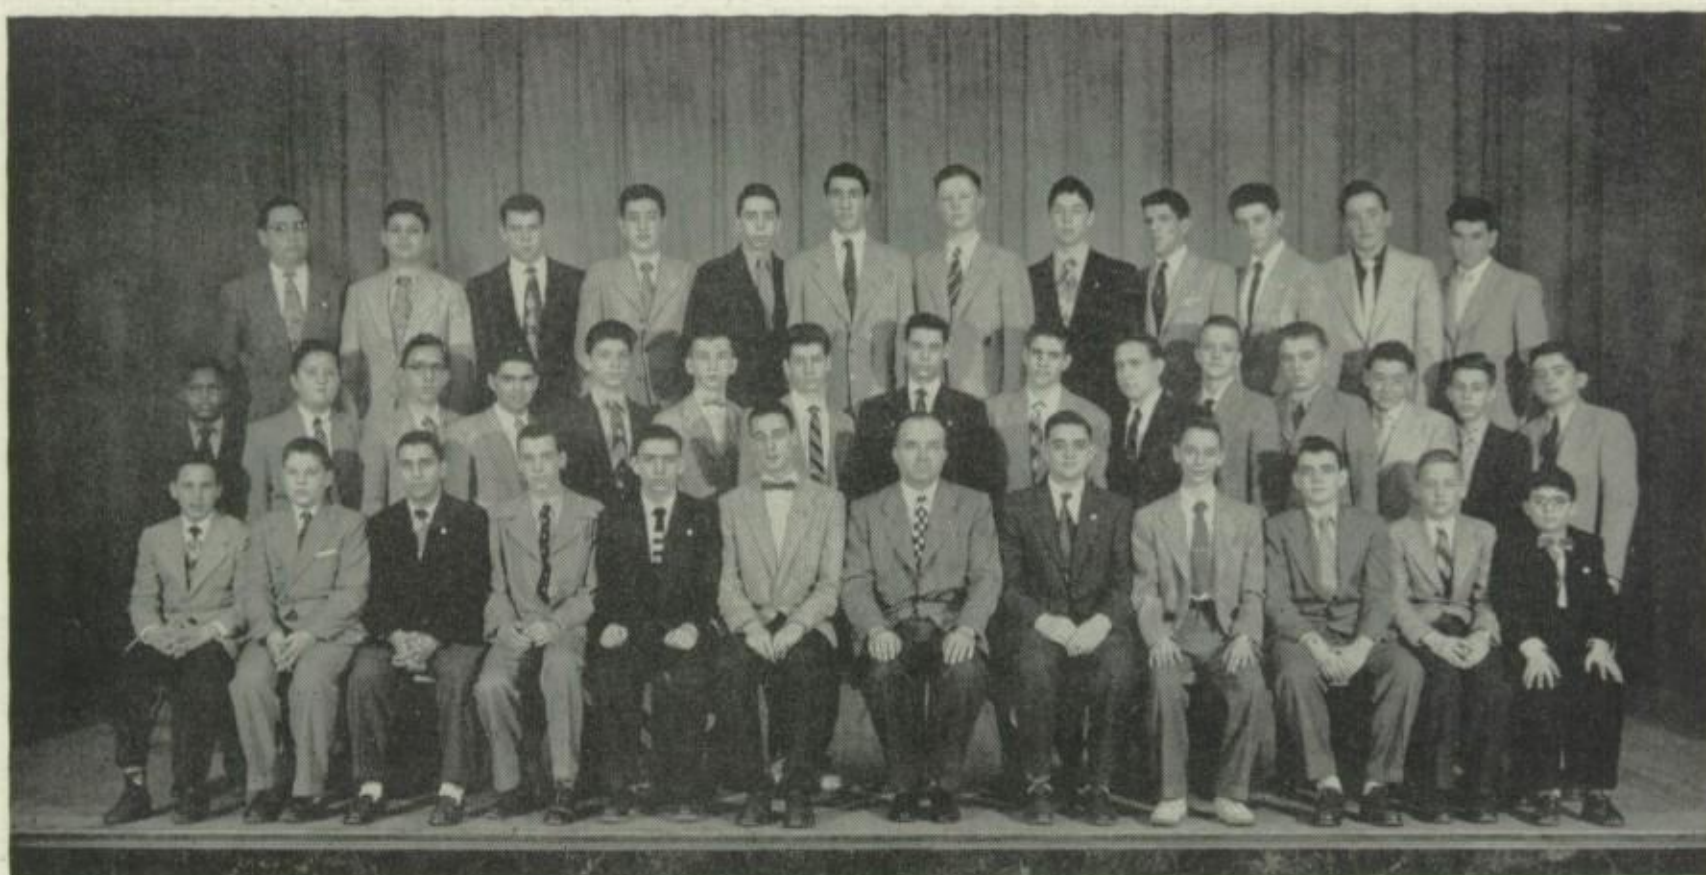

There are, within the membership, several experts on matters nautical. Lectures and films were presented to acquaint members with the nomenclature of vessels, navigation, and racing rules. The gratifying assistance of Mr. Pheeneey supplemented the program.

The accomplishments of the Sailing Club are commendable, and we envy its members and all sailing advocates, who are wont to skim the salty main. They call to mind visions of

"Those Nicean barks of yore
That gently o'er a perfumed sea
The weary, way-worn wanderer bore."

President Robert Spillane
Vice-President Gerald Kolodny
Secretary E. U. Lee and J. DiTroia
Treasurer Winslow Green

Program Chairman Michael A. Ruttenberg

In keeping pace with modern techniques, Latin School boys have made great advancement in science entirely by their own ingenuity. As living witness to the statement are the "lab" windows, shattered by recurring nuclear explosions. If you were to look closely, you could even detect a vast crater in the wall, constructed when the ions got loose after a drink of sulphuric acid.

To supplement the science course, the Club sponsors movies, discussions, and demonstrations of the latest scientific principles; but from the condition of the lab, it seems that the stress has been on what not to do.

Individual members have exhibited scientific apparatus at the annual Science Fair. The functioning of the group is supervised by Mr. Francis Carroll, Head of the Science Department, and by Mr. Paul Boylan, a master in the Department.

The members of the Social Science Club, consisting of boys of Class V, have undertaken an extracurricular study of customs and trends of our civilization and its governments. In their youthful uncorruptedness, they are likely to solve many more vital world problems than our lawmakers. Thus far, they have had debates and lively discussions on the Fifth Amendment and its present-day interpretations and that most vital of all international topics: "Should Boston Latin School be made co-educational?" By means of motion pictures and excursions to such places as the Gillette Razor factory, the members of the Club are constantly adding to their knowledge of our community. Mr. Avery deserves much credit for promoting the club's appealing program.

Stamp Club

President Robert Freedman
Vice-President Christos Alex
Secretary Paul Cutter
Treasurer Richard Nelles

The uninitiated and vulgar might express disdain for the fine art of philately and the inexplicable zeal of its advocates in accumulating quantities of useless paper, diversely colored and shaped. These persons have not the insight and enlightenment of a true stamp-collector. A stamp-album might well serve vicariously as a history book, for every stamp ever issued has had an historical significance. Whether it is a military victory, a scientific discovery, or an outstanding individual, it has probably been commemorated by a stamp. The search for an acquisition of some particular stamp is an exceptionally gratifying experience.

Sustained alternately by the studious advice and singular wit of Mr. McGuffin, this year's Stamp Club has endeavored to fulfill the purpose of stamp-collecting. Lectures, quizzes, and auctions were given, and also the opportunity for barter. Kaplan, Sveikauskas, Fahey, Bernstein, and others are to be commended for their contributions.

Trick Drill Team

Three years ago, Lt. Cannon, our Drillmaster, was approached by a student from the Lower Classes who requested permission to organize an exhibition drill team. The lieutenant was enthusiastic, but told the student that he had no time available for such a project. When the student offered a suggestion, he was put in charge of the team to instruct and drill it. An honor system, in which rigid self-discipline and proper mental attitude was the cement, was instituted to hold the structure together. After the notice of the formation of the team had been posted, one hundred twenty cadets applied. When the best thirty-six were chosen, the Trick Drill Team was in business.

Three years have passed. The Trick Drill Team has "strutted its stuff" in the N.H.S. Reviews, on Prize Drill Day, and at various conventions. From its ranks have come color guards and other details required for military exercises. Captaining the team for his third and last year, is Keith O'Donnell, who originated it three years ago. Next year, with another student as captain, its ranks will be filled by new members who will be initiated by the old. The aim of the team is summed up in the words of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Class of 1818: "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."
